Hoover Appeals for Finnish Relief Fund—News-Journal to Aid Drive

FORMER PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER today appealed to the nation to contribute in the drive for relief funds for war-stricken Finland, asking newspapers to volunteer as collection agencies for such funds—and The News-Journal today complies with his request.

It will make facilities available for receiving cash contributions, which will be acknowledged through the paper's columns, and which will be turned over to the Finnish relief fund in New York.

Mr. Hoover, who won undying fame as administrator of war relief in Belgium, has consented to organize a nation-wide relief fund campaign for Finland. In his work, he will be assisted by men who were with him in Belgium.

The News-Journal believes that such a task [illegible] better hands. It gladly makes an [illegible] nsfield and the vicinity [illegible] sh fund, and will handle contributions, forwarding them to Mr. Hoover's headquarters in New York.

Thus, there will be no overhead—contributions may be brought to The News-Journal office any weekday between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Checks may be mailed to the Finnish Relief Fund, care of The News-Journal. All contributions will be acknowledged.

This procedure is unusual. Mr. Hoover recognizes it. So does The News-Journal. But in Mr. Hoover's words, "the occasion is unusual."

The News-Journal believes that American sympathy is overwhelmingly with Finland, and hopes contributions will be generous. Mr. Hoover has already been advised that The News-Journal would co-operate with him in the relief campaign.

In requesting co-operation of newspapers throughout the country, Mr. Hoover issued an appeal for national support of the Finnish relief fund. It follows:

"America has a duty to do its part in the relief of the hideous suffering of the Finnish people. Our people should have an outlet in which to express their undivided and practical sympathy. I have consented to organize a nation-wide Finnish relief fund for this purpose.

"I appeal to the American people for its support.

"Finland is not a rich country. The people have little reserve for emergency. They are making a heroic defense. Air attacks have compelled the evacuation of civilians from their towns and cities.

Auto Kills Aged Woman as She Crosses Street

Mrs. Lettie Hunter, 74, Dies In Front of Home; Driver Exonerated.

Headed for a friendly call on a neighbor, a 74-year-old Mansfield woman was killed last night when struck by an automobile while crossing the street in front of her home.

She was Mrs. Lettie A. Hunter, 138 West Third street, who died of a fractured skull a few minutes after she was knocked to the pavement by an automobile driven by Austin Sites, 190 West Fourth street, police said.

This date last year—21

Mrs Hunter's death was the 25th traffic fatality in Richland county this year. She was the fifth pedestrian to be killed. Last year at this time 21 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in the county.

Sites, questioned by County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott after the accident which occurred shortly after 7 p. m., was exonerated by the prosecutor who termed the mishap "accidental." Marriott said he had also talked to Jack Cole, 120 Hedges street, who was riding with Sites at the time and was the only other witness.

Both men told police that Mrs. Hunter walked into the side of the machine as the driver swerved the car to the opposite side of the street to avoid hitting her.

Sites told officers he saw the woman step into the roadway and that he blew the horn but she apparently did not hear it.

Police examined the headlights and the brakes of the car and said they found them in "good" working order.

Mrs. Hunter's daughter, Miss Pauline Pittinger, with whom the aged woman had lived for the past 10 years could give little explanation for her mother's apparent failure to see the approaching car.

She said Mrs. Hunter's sight and hearing were not impaired and that she had been very active. Miss Pittinger said her mother was on the way to make

Real Estate Tax Collection Delayed Until February.

Richland countians will have a chance to replenish their finances after the holidays before starting to pay their 1940 taxes, County Treasurer John E. Kolb said today.

The first half real estate tax collection, which usually begins in January, probably will be delayed until late in February, giving property owners a "breathing spell" after paying the Christmas bills, the treasurer said.

The delay is not intentional, however, since additional time will be needed to mail about 54,000 statements to property holders. Statements were mailed for the first time this year.

With the first half collection held up until late February, the final collection period in 1940 probably will not be until early in the fall.

Child Molester Suspect Gets New Quizzing; Children to Attempt Identification.

A 30-year-old WPA worker, identified as the man who molested at least two small school girls during the past six months faced further questioning by police today after a quizzing yesterday disclosed the attempted rape of a 15-year-old Worthington township girl last summer.

Detectives Lee J. Remy and Deputy Sheriff Glenn P. Freeman who arrested the man at his home in Vernon Junction Wednesday said they would continue to question him today about the eight other young girls between the ages of eight and 14 whom he is said to have molested during the past six months.

They said the man confessed to the attempted attack on the Worthington township girl during questioning yesterday about his attempt to lure a 14-year-old child from the Butler school on Tuesday.

The girl signed a statement charging the man with attempted assault after she identified him in a police lineup yesterday.

$400,000 Blaze Hits Wellsburg; Fire Starts In Clock.

WELLSBURG, W. Va. —(AP)— Firemen and other workers began cleaning up debris today from the fire which destroyed the three-story city hall and threatened other buildings in the business district.

Fire Chief Sam Nelzin estimated at $400,000 the damage from the blaze. He said he believed the fire started in the clock tower of the city building from an undetermined cause.

State Revises Financing Plan for Route 30 Project, Asks $9,000 More From City.

HUNTER SEES TROUBLE

Doubts If Council Will Approve $30,000 Request; City Has Set Up $21,500 for Job.

The state highway department today slashed $10,000 from the county's share of the cost of the proposed route 30-N grade elimination project west of Mansfield and added about $9,000 to the city's share in a revised financing plan for the work.

In letters to the county commissioners and Mayor Claude M. Hunter, State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler set the county's share at $40,000 and asked the city to contribute approximately $30,000. Cost of the entire project was cut from $600,000 to slightly more than $500,000.

County commissioners who previously turned down a request for $50,000 over a two-year period, had asked that the city be required to pay an equal part of the county-city share of the expense.

Mayor Sees Snag.

Commissioners could not be reached today for comment on the new offer, but Mayor Hunter predicted trouble in getting council's approval of $30,000 for the work.

"Council already has set up $21,500 for the project and I am fearful that the new proposal will run into a snag," the mayor said.

"The state is still handing us a 'pig-in-the-poke' plan in asking the city to pay 85 per cent of the right-of-way cost," Hunter added. "We still don't know how much will be needed for the right-of-way, yet the state estimates the 85 per cent share at $17,000."

City and county officials were expected to confer on the offer today or Saturday before giving

RED CROSS PLEA

Chapter to Accept Funds for Finnish Relief.

The Richland county Red Cross chapter announced today it would accept contributions for Finnish relief work, following an appeal from national headquarters.

The chapter today had received from Norman H. Davis, national chairman, an appeal for money for the beleaguered people of the tiny Finn nation, less than half the size of the state of Ohio.

Mrs. Gertrude B. English, chapter secretary said contributions would be received and forwarded but that no drive for funds would be staged.

Red Cross volunteer workers are now hurrying to complete work on clothing for Polish refugees.

You'll Have to Welcome New Year at Home or Change Law

Unless someone sets aside the city ordinance, Mansfielders who plan to celebrate New Year eve will have to do their imbibing at home, for there will be no taverns open from Saturday (Dec. 30) midnight until 6 a. m. Monday, Jan. 1.

That was the situation today as Police Chief Meade K. Bates pointed to the city law governing the sale of liquor on Sundays which in this particular instance is the last day of the year.

Bates said he planned to confer with Mayor-elect William Locke and Mayor Claude M. Hunter to see if they wanted to suspend the city ordinance and allow taverns to open for a few hours early Monday morning, Jan. 1.

If officials want to permit it, taverns here can be allowed to open at midnight Sunday, Dec. 31 and sell for one or two and a half hours, depending upon the type of liquor permit they have. That's the hours of the state liquor law.

The city ordinance, unless suspended in this case, does not permit the sale of liquor until 6 a. m. Monday, which probably would be after most celebrants were in bed.

The state liquor board had announced today that it was not going to make any concessions to celebrants.

"The law says we cannot sell intoxicating liquors on Sunday and there is no authority to violate that law," Lowell C. Bodey, chairman of the board said.

Bodey said holders of night club licenses may open after Sunday midnight, but must close their establishments at the hour fixed by their permits—3 a. m. or 2:30 a. m. depending on the permit.

Santa Claus and a wizard mathematician were scheduled as the featured performers last night at the Central Ohio Traffic club's Christmas party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel but a baseball hero of a past generation almost stole the show.

Tris Speaker, considered the greatest centerfielder of all time, dropped in on the party for a little while and he received the biggest ovation of the evening.

Still husky and active although his hair is nearly white, the hero of many a baseball battle was introduced to the crowd of 250 while the orchestra played "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." He spoke briefly, ribbing the traffic men about having to behave themselves because their wives were at the party and accusing them of holding fake "conferences" to get out at nights.

Political Punches Fly After Landon's 3rd Term Demand

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The political cauldron boiled over in Washington today after Alf M. Landon, 1936 GOP nominee, again demanded President Roosevelt declare himself at once on the third term issue and the New Deal staged a family quarrel in public over the Democratic nominee for 1940 in event he does retire.

The staid, old capital, quiet since the adjournment of the special session of congress, was turned into a political boxing arena, with Republicans and Democrats swinging round-house verbal punches at everybody in sight. The Democrats, however, punched each other occasionally, while the Republicans concentrated their attack on the New Deal and its stalwarts.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who favors the president for a third term, touched off the fireworks by putting a "palace guard" veto on the Democratic presidential aspiration of Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt.

Ickes declared that he and all "liberal and progressive" elements would fight McNutt's nomination. He added the president would never support McNutt but that if he did, the liberals would still fight the Indianan.

For good measure, Ickes compared New York's GOP possibility, Thomas E. Dewey, to his own "crying baby." He really touched off a series of political explosions.

A typical Democratic retort was that of Senator Edwin Johnson, of Colorado, who said: "The liberal element is in a hell of a fix if there be but one among them to run for president."

Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley then joined a host of other Democrats in condemning Dewey's opening presidential campaign talk while Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton denounced Ickes, the New Deal and Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy.

Copper Declines Guard Post at Ohio Penitentiary.

Harry Copper, former city patrolman, today turned down the job of guard at the Ohio penitentiary offered to him Monday by Warden Frank D. Henderson.

Copper, who was to have reported for work at the prison today, said he was "unable to make the necessary arrangements to comply with the warden's time limit."

Employed as an assistant juvenile officer under Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Copper said he was unable to move his family to Columbus within the time given him to report for work. He said he had little desire to live outside Mansfield.

The former patrolman, who took the examination for the guard post several months ago, was recommended for the appointment by the Richland county Republican executive committee.

Declare Mine Set Off While Russian Troops Landed for New Petsamo Attack.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—Death of thousands of Soviet soldiers in explosion of a huge land mine during the landing of Russian troops from warships in the port of Liinahamari north of Petsamo was disclosed in Helsinki today.

The mine had been set by Finnish engineers beneath the main wharf at Liinahamari and went off soon after large detachments of Russian invaders had been landed for a second Soviet assault upon Petsamo.

Exact number of casualties was not known, but Finnish military headquarters estimated them at "many thousands."

Meanwhile, heavy fighting developed on the Karelian isthmus, where Finnish troops launched a new counter attack in the eastern sector after the Russians reached the main defenses of the Mannerheim line at several points but failed to penetrate it.

Charge Gas Used.

Local fighting was in progress north of Lake Ladoga where the Soviets again used gas shells, according to Finnish military authorities, and machine-gunned civilians from airplanes in two small towns.

Finland denied Russian claims that in the north Soviet troops had penetrated to a point 45 kilometers (about 26 miles) below Petsamo.

Renewed activity was reported from Hango and other fortified places along the southern coast.

Unofficial reports again stated that Finnish planes had successfully bombarded Soviet aerial concentrations at Paldiski (Baltic port), the Estonian harbor taken by the Russians as a military base. The reflection of flames from burning planes could be seen from Helsinki across the water.

The counter-attack was launched as the Helsinki government

WASHINGTON — The United States, formally reserving all its rights to recover on damages which it may suffer as a result of Britain's blockade of German exports, today called the blockade a breach of the principles of international law.

In a formal note to Great Britain made public by the state department the American government said it was "under the necessity of requesting that measures adopted by the British government shall not cause interference with the legitimate trade of its nationals and of reserving meanwhile all its rights and the rights of its nationals whenever, and to the extent that, they may be infringed."

Britain put into effect Monday a virtual blockade against German exports coming out through neutral countries and destined for overseas consumers.

Maverick Freed By Texas Jury On Poll Tax Conspiracy Count

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Mayor Maury Maverick, friend of President Roosevelt and former congressman, was acquitted today of charges he conspired to pay the poll taxes of other persons at the last city election.

Maverick, who started a political comeback as mayor after losing out in congress, was accused of paying the poll taxes of Union Garment workers.

Poll taxes are required for voting in Texas.

The mayor countered with charges that the trial was the outgrowth of animosities he engendered in whipping a political machine to obtain his mayoralty post.

The case was given the jury last night.

"My statement is contained in the verdict of the jury—not guilty," was Maverick's only comment.

Applause broke out in the back of the chamber as the verdict was announced notwithstanding that Judge Bryce Ferguson had warned against any demonstration.

Maverick shook hands with each juror and patted the foreman on the back.

COPENHAGEN — Neutral ships in the Baltic hastily began leaving waters adjacent to Finland today as a result of Soviet Russia's announcement of a blockade of Finland.

They will have until noon tomorrow to leave the blockaded zone. After that Russia will declare the waters "dangerous for shipping."

The new Russian weapon, supplementing attacks on Finnish soil by land, air and sea, was disclosed last night when the Danish ministry of commerce announced it had been notified by Moscow of the Blockade, effective at noon today.

The Scandinavian governments have not adopted an official position regarding the blockade.

Official circles here, however, pointed out that the Soviet government was within its rights under international law in declaring it.

Both Finland and Sweden have mined approaches to the Gulf of Bothnia, the east shore of which is Finnish.

In such an event, observers said, traffic could continue across the gulf between Sweden and Finland unless the Red air force could enforce the blockade in those waters with effective bombing.

The consensus in diplomatic quarters was that neutral Scan-

Get Out the Cans, Kids, Matinee's Set For Tomorrow

Hi, Kids! Are you all set for the first big "can matinee" for the benefit of the Christmas baskets?

It goes on tomorrow, you know, and there's a corking good bill. It will be at the Ohio theater and the doors open at 9 a. m. The show is scheduled for 9:30.

All you have to do is get one of the nicest cans of fruit or vegetables from mother's cellar or get one from the grocery. And the Saturday before Christmas it will be in the basket which will go to some needy family.

Baskets will be given out this year by the Salvation Army and the Mansfield Service League. The number of baskets will depend upon the amount of money and food received by both organizations. The News-Journal will receive contributions of money and food, and the Mansfield Community Fund will act as clearing house for lists of needy families.

The bill at the Ohio tomorrow was changed just this morning from that originally scheduled, in order to give the youngsters a "bigger and better" show. It includes Peter B. Kyne's stirring story of "The Valley of The Giants?" in color, with Wayne Morris, Claire Trevor and Charles Bickford. And then there will be two cartoon pictures, "Gandy The Goose" and "Off Day."

issued a desperate appeal to Great Britain, the Scandinavian nations and other friendly countries to send men and arms to Finland to stem the Russian invasion and save Finland from a "fate worse than Poland's."

The Russians reached some of the main Karelian defenses after a 15-hour battle during which they were reported to have suffered severe casualties.

(A dispatch from Stockholm stated that a high Finnish officer on the Karenlian front in an interview expressed "contempt" for the Russian tactics in "driving forth masses of men without cover."

(According to the dispatch, the officer estimated that Russian losses during the first week of the war amounted to 20,000 men.

(The dispatch quoted him as adding: "Perhaps it will not be easy later on for the Russian officers to drive their soldiers over these dead corpses.")

Meanwhile, an official announcement stated that "despite bad weather, Finnish coastal defenses fired on Russian warships which tried to shell the coastal fortifications."

According to an official communique, Soviet planes bombed three Finnish villages along the northern shore of Lake Ladoga, but caused only slight damage.

The communique admitted that the Russians crossed the Taipale river in Karelia under cover of heavy artillery barrages, but stated that the counter-attack was designed to drive the Reds back across the stream.

Army Advances on 3 Fronts, Soviet Says.

MOSCOW —(AP)— Soviet Russia today reported advances of Red army columns pushing into Finland from three sides.

A communique of the Leningrad military area headquarters said the advancing Russian forces had seized Finnish supplies and downed two Finnish warplanes. The communique covered military activity of yesterday.

In the north, it said, Soviet troops reached a point 45 kilometers (28 miles) south of Petsamo, Finland's outlet to the Arctic ocean, advancing over Finnish minefields and piercing entanglements erected by defense forces.

Along the center of the Finnish eastern frontier, the 800-mile border between Finland and Russia from Lake Ladoga to the Arctic ocean, it said, Soviet troops broke the resistance of "Finnish White Guards" and pushed the Russian vanguards 70 to 75 kilometers (43 to 46 miles) within Finnish territory.

These forces, it said, captured six 75-millimeter (2.95-inch) and nine 37- millimeter (1.45-inch) guns, 20 heavy and 37 light machine-guns and several storehouses filled with food and supplies.

The Finns were said to have left many wounded and more than 300 frost-bitten soldiers on this front.

In the south, on the Karelian isthmus between the gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, the communique reported Russian advances on two lines.

It said Red army forces had progressed from eight to 12 kilometers (five to seven miles) after breaking through the main Finnish defense line along the Vuoksa water system and had reached a point beyond the Taipaleenioki river.

(Finns have declared this line still intact.)

Daladier Denounces Reds, Draws Cheers.

PARIS—(U.P.)—Premier Edouard Daladier, to the ringing cheers of members of the chamber of deputies, denounced Russia's aggression against Finland today, saluted the Finns in the name of the French government and people, and promised Finland aid and support in its appeal to the League of Nations for help.

Finland, the premier said, had awakened the conscience of the world to aggression. He expressed hope that "even in enemy territory" there were men who felt protest within themselves against the "crime" of the Russian attack.

Chairman Jean Mistler of the chamber foreign affairs commission, said in a speech immediately afterward:

"After the attack of brutal aggression against Finland we must have the certainty that the league will condemn Russia."

legislatures must take care of this problem.

Sharply emphasizing his words with figures, the president cited a relief expenditure of $7,000,000 since the beginning of the 1939 year by Ohio as compared with a $33,000,000 expenditure by Pennsylvania for the same purpose. He added that this went to show that the state of Ohio was not taking care of its home relief cases as well as Pennsylvania.

The president broke down the figures to show that Ohio's average general cost per home relief case in October, 1939 was $16 as compared with a $27 cost for Pennsylvania.

Mr. Roosevelt added that sticking to the government policy of not permitting any one to starve the federal government was sending surplus commodities into Ohio, then turned to reemphasize again the fact that home relief cases comprised a responsibility of the state.

The congress has said that the federal government will take care only of employables, the president insisted. Every state in the union he pointed out, has proceeded along the lines directed by congress. Therefore, in the president's mind, the government in Washington is not at all involved in the Ohio situation.

Bricker Makes Sharp Reply.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— President Roosevelt's criticism of the state administration as being responsible for the present Ohio relief problem today quickly drew a sharp reply from Gov. John W. Bricker.

"The real cause of the trouble, whatever trouble there is," said the governor in a formal statement, "is due to the WPA in Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) during an election year raising its rolls to 74,000 persons and then suddenly slashing them back to 30,000 after the election was over.

"The federal authorities are doing a lot of talking and very little to help the situation. They seem more interested in the politics of the affair than in helping the needy. They have only aggravated the situation.

"There will be adequate help for all the needy. There would be no problem in Cleveland if the WPA had taken its employes from the relief rolls instead of hiring thousands who are not relief clients.

"If the federal authorities are so interested in the welfare of the people of Ohio, why is it they have failed to repay the state the $1,300,000 in old age pension funds withheld because of a political row."

News-Journal Joins Hoover In Appeal For Finnish Aid

"Hundreds of thousands of women and children have been driven from their homes in the middle of northern winter. Many are already, and more will be, refugees outside of their own country. Many are destitute. Others are without adequate shelter, clothing and food. This fund is for the purpose of serving these broad needs.

"I fully realize the present needs of many of our own people and also the needs of the Polish people as well, the committee of which I am also a member I would not wish any contributions to this fund for Finland to lessen the support of all these needs.

"But in this time of our sorrow and sympathy for the plight of Finland, Americans should also make sacrifices for them.

"Owing to the emergency of the matter I have asked an unusual service of the newspapers of the country, that they should sponsor the fund in their localities, that they should accept and acknowledge contributions through their columns. I hope that the people in each locality will co-operate with and aid their paper.

"A nation-wide sponsorship is also being constituted for general conduct of the fund. My former colleagues in Belgian relief have volunteered to undertake the work of administration under the leadership of Mr. Edgar Rickard, with an office at the Graybar building, New York, N. Y.

"Emergency supplies can be obtained in Norway and Sweden pending shipment from the United States. By the aid of the press and of the voluntary service of these experienced men, we can move quickly and avoid any consequential overhead expenses.

"I hope those who can afford it will contribute generously. Contribution no matter how small are the evidence of our sympathy.

100 AT BAND BENEFIT CONCERT, PERFORMERS LOSE ON VENTURE

After over two weeks of work by the Senior high school band and the Band Mother's club to promote the appearance here of Herbert Petrie and his White Hussars, it was the White Hussars themselves who lost money on the venture.

Barely 100 persons heard the Hussars, one of the finest musical organizations ever to appear here, in their concert in the high school auditorium last night, and nearly 600 elementary, junior and senior high school pupils attended the matinee.

The ensemble was sponsored here in an effort to raise money for the band uniform fund, but the fund remained as it was at a little over $800. All money received went to the ensemble but it was not what they should have received according to terms of their contract and had the project been a success.

The concert was one in a series of projects to raise money to purchase new uniforms for the band. The last project, the Thanksgiving Day football game, will add an additional $200 to the fund.

During the hour-and-a-half concert, the ensemble presented about 24 different operatic and classical selections, featured by vocal and instrumental solo numbers. Special lighting effects were used in presenting the program.

MRS. G. R. DAUP

"I can certainly say that Vendol is everything I heard it was, because it has given me marvelous relief from my troubles and I feel better than in many a day since taking it," says Mrs. G. R. Daup of 109 N. Benton St., Mansfield, wife of the well known Contracting Carpenter, in a statement given the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"When I started on Vendol I was in a sluggish, let-down condition and constipated every day, and this kept my nerves on edge so that my sleep was not restful and I'd get up most every morning feeling achy, with a headache, bad taste in my mouth, tongue coated and little spots dancing before my eyes.

"In addition, this constipation made me feel bloated with gas after eating and sometimes it was so bad that my breath became short and I had palpitation; at other times it made my stomach churn with fermenting food so that acid risings came up in my throat and I'd have sharp gas cramps in my stomach.

"I heard so much praise for Vendol that I got some, and I'm thoroughly pleased with the way it acted. In a few days my constipation was relieved; then all those other troubles passed off and now I'm feeling as well as I ever felt before. I think Vendol is fine medicine and recommend it to anyone who suffers from the same causes as mine."

Vendol is made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added and gives relief from many symptoms resulting from constipation or need of a diuretic to my kidneys. It is pleasant to take and prompt to act.

Give Vendol a chance to help you too. It is sold by most all leading druggists and the Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., to explain all about it. So, come see him today if possible.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

The Story So Far: Santa has been talking to a doll which the fairies made to give to the King of Westphalia. The doll can talk between midnight and dawn. They hear the son of Lightning piping his flute on the hills.

He blew a new tune on his flute. A short tune of two notes.

CHAPTER FIVE
The Challenge.

FOR half an hour Santa and the new doll stood at the window and watched the graceful son of Lightning dancing on the snowy hills. The sweet tunes of his silver flute made their hearts beat fast.

He would dance down the hill almost to the Toyshop doorstep. There he would hesitate and then dash wildly up the hill again until he was outlined against the moon.

"Oh, I wish he would come in," whispered the doll. As she whispered the figure on the hill stood breathlessly still. The song of the flute stopped. Then the figure danced down the hill, playing a bold march. He walked straight into the Toyshop door and straight up to the side of the doll.

"Oh," she gasped.

"But you wished it," said the son of Lightning. He looked full of laughter and he winked at Santa. Santa chuckled.

"Come," said Santa, "She did wish it. Let's sit down."

The three went over to the fireplace but the son of Lightning continued to stand so lightly that he looked as though he were hung on an invisible chain.

Prince of the North.

"Come now," said Santa. "Who are you? You look familiar."

"You know my father," said the handsome young man. He is Lightning."

"Oh," said Santa surprised.

"And you?" said the young man to the doll.

"I'm new," she said. "I have no name."

"No name?" said the young man. "Let's give you a name. Let's choose me a name, too."

Santa chuckled and said, "I have a name for you, young man. You are like a prince of the North who lived years ago. He always led his troops because he could ride the fastest, and often when his men were losing in battle he pulled his flute out and played such wild songs that they won. His name was Eric."

"Thank you, Sire," said the young man bowing. "Eric it is. But I have no troops. And I need none. The whole world is mine."

"Hmm-m-, big words," said Santa. "How do you mean it's yours?"

Eric's eyes became wide with thought and he looked directly at Santa as he spoke, "Sire, I know not how, but I shall wander far, know many people and finally come into a Kingdom of my own."

"Wander far?" asked Santa. "As your father does, hurling shafts of Lightning?"

"No," said the young man. "I shall have his strength but I shall use it to help the good."

A Name for the Doll.

Santa scratched his head and smiled at the confident young man.

"But now for a name for this lady," said Eric and he smiled at the doll. He blew a new tune on his flute. A short tune of two notes that sounded like a bird call. "How is that for a name?" he asked.

Santa puzzled and then said slowly, "It sounds like 'Lee-zen, Lee-zen'."

"That's it," said Eric.

"It's a pretty name," said the doll. "Leezen."

But as they talked pink streaked the sky. Leezen rose, smoothed her hair, walked to the foot of the huge Christmas tree, pulled herself up straight like a soldier and then suddenly the life seemed to go out of her. Santa sighed and stretched.

"Why, what has happened?" asked Eric.

"She is a doll, you know," said Santa. "At dawn she can no longer talk until the next midnight. She has been made for the King of Westphalia. Tomorrow at midnight I shall take her there."

"The King of Westphalia," laughed Eric. He ran a scale on his flute. "I shall win her, Santa."

"Oh, no!" said Santa.

"Oh, yes!" said Eric and then he danced out of the door and over the hills.

Tomorrow: Eric steals Leezen from Toyland.

CUTS IN MORE DIAL PHONES

Company Finishes Conversion in Rural Districts, Starts Work in City After Jan. 1.

New dial telephones of the Mansfield Telephone company were functioning today in the Mifflin township district.

The change from the manual method of operation was completed yesterday and represented an expenditure of approximately $35,000. A new sub-station was erected on U. S. route 30, just east of the junction of route 39 to house the dial equipment that serves the area.

In all, 260 telephones were involved—representing the final step in the rural dial conversion program started more than a year ago by the company. A new sub-station also was built at Ontario and on North Main street road to serve the east and north districts.

LeRoy Wittemire, general manager of the company said that the company will begin the dial conversion work in Mansfield early next year and that it is probable that the "cut-over" to dial service will take place about Sept. 1.

Wittemire said the company had also completed the distribution of approximately 15,000 directory supplements to its subscribers listing the new dial numbers and number changes made in the city since the issuance of the directory last May.

NYA ROLLS HIT PEAK IN COUNTY

Recent Assignments Increase Number of Young People on Projects to 92.

The assignment Monday of three youths to an agricultural planning project in the county agent's office will boost employment on the National Youth administration work experience program in the county to a new peak of 92.

Phil Weaver, county NYA supervisor, said that additional projects are being planned and will be initiated next year in order to boost the employment figure past the 100 mark.

Increased employment is being made possible by the release of additional funds allocated to NYA last June. More than 50 youths between the ages of 18 and 24 have been added to the out-of-school program in the last few months.

The 89 part-time jobs are divided between 75 boys and 14 girls on nine projects in cooperation with several public agencies.

Among the projects are woodworking at South park, conservation project at Charles Mill reservation, clerical assistance at the city building NYA office and the construction of a roadside park on U. S. route 30 at Mifflin.

In addition, other projects operating in the county include three at Friendly house and a city parks rehabilitation program at Shelby.

Report Davey Has Interest In O. S. U. Presidency Choice

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, an authoritative source said, has sought to influence certain trustees of Ohio State university to select Dr. James G. McDonald of Brooklyn as president of the institution.

Dr. McDonald, now president of the Brooklyn Institute of Fine Arts and Sciences, is one of three candidates now under consideration. The others are Dr. Wilson Compton, lecturer at George Washington university, and Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. C. J. Altmaier of Marion, one of Davey's three appointments to the Ohio State board of trustees, said he was not aware that the former governor was interested in any candidate.

The board will meet here again Monday. Another member said the board hoped to agree on a successor to Dr. George W. Rightmire, retired, soon after Jan. 1.

Dr. William McPherson is acting president of the university.

FOOD PRICES IN NATION DECLINE

Federal Index Shows Decline For Week Ending Dec. 5.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Labor department statistics show that the level of average retail prices of staple foods dropped slightly more than one per cent in the week ended Dec. 5.

Much of the decline was attributed to price changes for meat and eggs. Substantial declines were reported also for lard, sugar and navy beans.

In most cities included in the survey the price level was from 3 to 5 per cent higher than mid-August.

4 MORE TRUCKS DETAINED HERE

State and County Continue Drive Against Violations of Public Utilities Law.

Four more out-of-state trucks were detained in Richland county yesterday by state and county authorities in a campaign against violations of the state public utilities law.

Charles F. Parshall, of Marion, P. U. C. O. investigator, and Deputy Sheriff Glenn Humphrey ordered two trucks detained because the drivers failed to show the proper reciprocity tax receipts and two others because fire extinguishers on the trucks were empty.

Two of the trucks were operated by Frank Lis and company, Detroit, Mich., and were here to transport bricks from the Ohio Shale Brick company north of the city. Another truck was owned by the Petroleum Transport company of Indiana and the fourth by T. E. Huber of Detroit.

One of the Lis trucks and the Buber trucks were released late yesterday after the fire extinguishers were filled to meet requirements.

Six other trucks, most of them from Texas, were held here recently because the drivers could show no receipts for payment of the reciprocity tax permitting them to operate in Ohio.

NOT SO EASY!

Acused Of Assault, Man Thinks 'I'm Sorry' Clears Him.

WILSON, N. C. —(AP)— A man jailed on charges of assault and battery with a deadly weapon summoned Deputy Sheriff J. W. Woodard and told him, "I'm ready to sign those sorry papers now."

"What do you mean?" asked the officer.

"I mean those papers that say I'm sorry I done it."

Church Head Hits Liquor Board on Permit 'Laxity'

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Dr. Francis M. Hall, chairman of the Cleveland Federation of Churches Temperance committee, today charged that the state liquor board was granting permits to places within the 300-foot restricted areas around schools and churches.

Dr. Hall made his charges at the annual public meeting of the liquor board in Cleveland.

"A survey made by the Cleveland board of education," he said, "shows that a large portion of the beer parlors are within 100 feet of a school. Many are within 25 and 50 feet of the schools."

Jacob B. Taylor, director of the state liquor department, said that efforts were being made to deal with the problem.

"We want to be realistic," he said. "We're going to provide relief as fairly as we possibly can."

ATOM SMASHER NEARLY READY AT OHIO STATE

90-Ton Colossus, Built at Cost of $46,000, to Begin Operation Early in 1940.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— It's going to be a hard winter for atoms at Ohio State university. "Big Bertha," the school's new atom smasher, is nearing completion.

Built by WPA, university engineers and graduate students, the 90-ton colossus is one of threescore in the world. It cost $46,000.

Why smash an atom? Dr. M. L. Pool of the department of physics offers this comparatively simple answer:

By smashing atoms into tiny bits of matter—a process called transmutation—science is discovering new metals and materials.

Before the invention of the cyclotron—the technical name for "Big Bertha"—there were 281 stable nuclei in 92 known elements. Atom smashing has produced 232 new artificial radioactive nuclei.

(The number of protons and neutrons in the nucleus of an atom determines whether a substance is carbon, gold, or some other metal).

One product of the atom smasher is radio-active sodium, a substitute for radium in medical treatments.

How is atom-smashing done? Fitted between two barrel-like electro-magnets is a bass-drum type of container into which atoms are placed. The atoms are bombarded by a stream of ions stepped up to a potential of approximately 10,000,000 volts with the aid of a 40,000-watt shortwave radio transmitter.

The nucleus of the atom is disrupted and the number of protons or neutrons changed when the ions strike.

The terrific heat generated by the circulating ions requires the cyclotron to be wrapped in eight miles of hollow copper tubing through which water is forced to keep the machine cool and to prevent the escape of neutrons.

Ohio State's atom-smasher is expected to be in operation by January or February. Working with Dr. Pool are Dr. Alpheus Smith, head of the university physics department, and colleagues Dr. K. R. More and Dr. E. Gaerttner.

The cyclotron's designer, Dr. Ernest Orlando Lawrence, 38-year-old professor at the University of California, recently was awarded the Nobel prize in physics.

So by January, atoms will be wandering around Ohio State saying to each other:

"Had your transmutation today?"

ERRATIC PRICE TREND CLOUDS STOCK MARKET

Fractional Changes Rule List After Quiet Opening; Commodities Uneven.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Erratic price tendencies clouded the direction of today's stock market.

Volume flattened out further after a quiet opening and later fractional price changes either way were the rule.

Up a trifle at one time were Chrysler, Philip Morris, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, and Pennsylvania.

In the lower drift were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, and Westinghouse.

Continued offerings of American securities from abroad were cited as the principal market handicap, although the hopeful business outlook at home served to keep domestic selling light.

Commodities turned uneven, with recently bounding wheat futures taking a rest. Cotton again exhibited strength. Bonds were selectively improved. European markets were trendless.

Market analysts studied weekend trade reviews which indicated retail spending throughout the country, while highly irregular in its regional showing, topped the same week last year by 5 to 12 per cent.

A helpful factor was seen in the federal reserve survey estimating factory production in November reached the statistical equivalent of the best month of 1929.

Brokerage quarters attributed the relative activity of a number of power and light company preferred shares with dividend appearances during the past few weeks partly to the belief increased earnings will permit elimination of accumulations in a number of cases. Recapitalization plans of others also were expected to take care of back payments.

YULETIDE STORY AMONG LATEST LIBRARY FICTION

'Sister of the Angels' Novel of Cathedral Town; Girl, 11, Principal Character.

A perfect Christmas story is SISTER OF THE ANGELS, by Elizabeth Goudge, author of A CITY OF BELLS, which like the first novel is a story of a cathedral town in England. It is one of the new fiction volumes at the Public library this week.

In the story Henrietta, aged 11, lives with her grandparents in the cathedral town of Tornminster. Being naturally artistic, she is overjoyed at an opporunity to work with a real artist. Her presents to her grandfather, Canon of the cathedral, carries the true spirit of the Christ-child.

The homely, everyday incidents of this child's life present an unforgettable picture of childhood with its impulsive, imaginative actions.

SEA TOWER, by Hugh Walpole, is a psychological novel of a mother who has dominated her sons' lives. Because she will not yield her authority to Christina, the wife of one son, Joe, Mrs. Field constantly struggles to provoke enmity. Her hatred for this daughter-in-law finally warps the mother's mind.

TELLERS OF TALES selected by W. Somerset Maugham is a definitive anthology of the short story. It contains one hundred masterpieces from the United States, England, France, Russia and Germany, written during the last few centuries.

Other fiction this week includes:

BLUNT INSTRUMENT, by Heyer.

BAKER'S DOZEN, Norris.

MIDAS TOUCH, Kennedy.

WORLD'S END, Johnson.

Moley Writes On Roosevelt.

AFTER SEVEN YEARS, by Raymond Moley is an account of Moley's experiences since January, 1932, including the two years he spent as adviser to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, during his campaign and during the first year of his administration.

Moley, born and raised in Berea, in the intense political atmosphere of Ohio, has spent his life in the study, practice and teaching of government and politics. Thus he looks upon his acivities these past seven years as an opportunity and an education. He gives a searching estimate of Roosevelt's personality.

SHAKESPEARE by Mark Van Doren devotes a chapter to each of the plays and one to all of the poems by that great poet of all time. Van Doren tries to give a better understanding of the artistry that creates for us a particular world and makes us live in it for the duration of a play.

FLOWERING EARTH by Donald Culross Peattie, naturalist and author of "An Almanac of Moderns," tells us what meaning plant life has for him. He gives us some scientific facts, but only to explain how plants have developed and why they are such miracles.

MEXICO REBORN, by Verna Carleton Millan is a book for American readers, written by an American, which gives the viewpoint of the Mexican people. Verna Millan has lived in Mexico since 1933 and she writes the inside story of the men and events that are changing Mexico so quickly.

CHILD, 'PRISONER' SIX YEARS, LEARNS HOW TO TALK, WALK

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The miracle of science is making the miracle of Christmas come true for seven-year-old Annabelle Barton.

Until a year ago the child communicated with her deaf, mute and partially blind mother only in a weird sign language unintelligible to others. To all appearances she couldn't hear and her legs were so bowed that walking was difficult.

Miss Eva Janson, head of a hospital to which Annabelle was brought as a ward of the state, said the child's condition apparently resulted from spending much of her first six years as a virtual prisoner in a barren room, although relatives of the mother denied keeping them in isolation at a home near Mt. Vernon.

But today Annabelle lives in a bright new world revolving about Christmas.

She talks, sings and dances. Surgery has partially straightened her legs and another operation is expected to make them nearly normal. Her hearing is apparently perfect, strangers frighten her no longer, and she enjoys the company of other children.

The change in Annabelle's behavior resulted largely from the patient effort of Miss Janson and Miss Marie K. Mason of Ohio State university's speech department.

"Annabelle will eventually be able to go through school and become self-supporting," asserted Miss Mason.

Both women were misty-eyed a year ago, when, after laborious effort, they succeeded in getting Annabelle to say "bu" when confronted with a brightly colored ball.

There's a new light in their eyes now as they recount that Annabelle says distinctly:

"I want Santa to bring me a watch that ticks and a bicycle and a baby. I mean a real baby."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1939.

Had you stopped to think that it'll soon be too late to do your Christmas shopping early?

Whatever else may be lacking next year, the crop of political promises may be expected to be above average.

The United States Chamber of Commerce favors a federal budget that will not exceed revenues—but that's too much common sense to be taken in a single dose.

The Pleasure of Gift-Buying

GIFT-BUYING should never be allowed to become a hardship, nor should it be extended to the point of being a worrisome financial burden—but cultivation of a desire to give, within reasonable bounds of financial ability, is one of the fine traits that make the world a pleasanter place in which to live.

Within the family an exchange of gifts serves as an expression of affection which strengthens home ties and carries fond memories into later years when the family circle has been broken.

Gifts to friends also reveal a human sentiment for which there is need of more frequent expression, for sincere friendships are among the most valuable possessions of life.

But giving to members of the family and to friends is a natural impulse of many people. The true spirit of Christmas requires that consideration be also given to some of those less fortunate people in the community who might otherwise be neglected—elderly persons; underprivileged children; families that are in need of food or other necessities; men and women, boys and girls who can be given a helping hand and a word of cheer—all of these offer opportunities for individualized service entirely aside from grouped relief activities.

Remember that your gift means far more to the recipient than its value in money—that in its real purpose it carries something much more precious than is indicated by its cost. With that approach to gift-buying during this holiday season the experience will be a pleasure, not a task to be dreaded.

Fooled By Hidden Taxes

COMMENTING on a nation-wide poll which disclosed that 25 per cent of the people believe they do not pay taxes, the Kansas City Times says: "Presumably these are people who never ride in motorcars, who do not live in houses or apartments, who do not buy food or clothing or do any of the other things that go to make up present-day living.

"That 25 per cent is pretty mythical. It's the supreme example of self-delusion. It sees no tax bills and so concludes it does not pay. It's pretty much like saying that because you don't see the heat or the cold neither can exist."

What this all adds up to is simply that the great bulk of taxes collected in this country are hidden taxes. Nobody sends you a quarterly or an annual statement showing the total you pay. Instead you pay taxes hourly, daily, weekly, in little pieces—when you make a purchase or pay your rent or go to a show. And, in a year's time, those little pieces total more than 20 per cent of your entire income. In other words, your earnings for over one month out of five go to the tax collector instead of into your own pocket.

A search for the man who doesn't pay taxes would be as fruitless as Diogenes' classic search for the completely honest man.

Five-Year Program of Helpfulness

FEW PERSONS have better opportunity to observe the seamy side of city life than those engaged in the grocery business, which deals largely in one of the essential commodities—food.

In conducting a grocery store in Mansfield for more than forty-five years—until his death last October 25—George M. Morris had many occasions to aid indigent families in need of bare necessities of living, and as he went busily about his daily work he must have become increasingly impressed with the idea of extending his helpfulness beyond his own lifetime.

Under the terms of his will Mr. Morris specified that $1,500 be set aside to meet the cost of distributing 300 baskets of groceries to needy families each December for five years—and this is now being done.

There is always a question as to what form charity had best take in aiding the poor without encouraging dependence, but the need for food is an emergency matter that cannot be deferred for sociological study, and the direct method hit upon by the late Mr. Morris is at least an essential part of the community's direct relief requirements.

If Mansfield can be developed, through individual and group activities, into a city in which all employables are self-sustaining and all worthy poor are provided with the essentials of life by voluntary contributions from the more fortunate, this community will have achieved what might reasonably be expected of any city in the United States. In the extent to which a city fails to do this it becomes a liability, rather than an asset, to the country as a whole.

Over-Expanded Real Estate

ONE of the causes of financial grief in America is the widespread over-expansion of urban real estate development.

The real estate boom which followed the war, and lasted almost through the 1920's, seemed to assume that the population of the United States, and particularly of its growing cities, was limitless. As a result, especially in the case of industrial cities and their residential suburbs, vast areas of former farm land or woodland were turned into real estate allotments.

In this hopeful movement hundreds of cities throughout the country acquired, in addition to their built-up residence sections, great fringes of land fully or partially developed, with streets, pavements, and essential services, capable of accommodating about as many people as the existing city.

Then came the depression. Ever since, the owners and developers of thousands of subdivisions have been struggling with taxes and assessments.

Lately there have been signs of returning life in many such allotments. An occasional buyer comes along, the weeds are cut down, a house goes up here and there. But there must be almost enough building lots left from that hopeful spree to take care of the residential expansion needs of this nation for 50 or 100 years.

A California man and woman, divorced in 1899, are to be re-married—having forgotten what the quarrel was about.

The Ham Fish boom for vice president is having a hard time finding a place on the political menu.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The New York publishers are having a gloomy side of the war forced on them by the foreign boards of censors. It seems that some of their manuscripts are having trouble getting through, and in one New York office at least there were serious moments—until the manuscript of C. V. R. Thompson's "I Lost My English Accent" arrived.

Mr. Thompson was fetching this tome over himself. But as he boarded ship his baggage was opened and the censors immediately dived on the manuscript.

"You can't leave the country with this," he decided. "It is propaganda that is unfavorable to Great Britain." Things looked bad until somebody explained that the book had already been through seven printings, and that copies of it could probably be found in every country in the world."

But the publishers are still viewing the censorship boards with gloom. "What," they inquire, "would we do if Mr. Thompson himself should be considered contraband on his next visit to England?"

J. A. BOND the style man, sends in a note . . . "Dinner jackets are still all right in black, but mulberry or plum is really preferable," he says. "Or twilight blue."

This is disturbing. But there isn't anything I can do about it. Having set the stage, Mr. Bond then delivers himself of these opinions as regards hats. "Hat etiquette, as concerns the semi-formal garb, is quite inflexible. With the tuxedo, there is a choice of three hats—the black or midnight blue snap-brim; the black of midnight blue homburg; the black or midnight blue folding opera hat.

"But," admonishes Mr. Bond, "Don't wear the opera hat as if it were taking YOU to the party, instead of your taking it. Tilt it a little further than you think you should, and it will endow you with that rakish look you've always admired in those movie villains."

As a parting bit of advice, Mr. Bond suggests: "If you are short or on the chunky side, stick to single breasted suits. The double-breasted outfit has the trick of creating an optical illusion which makes a tall man less tall and a stout man positively dumpy."

I just thought I'd pass the word along.

NOT long ago, Bill Adams gained recognition for his voice doubling as Franklin D. Roosevelt. Soon after that unofficial word from the White House prohibited the impersonation on the air.

Bill Adams had several commercial programs, the most important being an afternoon script called "Your Family and Mine." After being stopped from using the impersonation of the president, Bill's troubles had just begun. Every time he did a stunt on the airwaves, the sponsor would receive a deluge of letters protesting that the voice of the president was being used to further the interest of the program.

ONE by one his programs disappeared until Bill Adams only has "Your Family and Mine." Sticking by their featured player, cast and sponsors insisted that he remain in the important part that was his. His emoting, they said, was essential.

The other day Bill Adams decided on a course to end the jinx of being the voice double of FDR. He hired Mrs. Elizabeth Major, wife of the caricaturist, and a noted voice coach to give him a voice personality of his own.

Within a few weeks, Bill Adams, thanks to the loyal support of his producers, will still appear in the character he created on the program, but if the listeners write in to the sponsor this time it will be because they don't recognize the voice of the man they have been hearing in the part for so long. And how could they? As far as Bill is concerned, Mr. Adams is a new man.

Timely Editorial

Now For the Defense Fund.

They have sent the little fuehrer, Kuhn, off to jail as a thief, but his soul is marching on. A vice-fuehrer takes over the Bund racket, and on the day after the Kuhn conviction he was rallying the faithful in the Bronx, talking to them in this wise:

"We cannot go on unless large sums of money are available. We will carry this battle through until Kuhn is free again. What we are trying to teach the German element and others is that the only way to stop persecution is by making sacrifices for the time being. Make it your business to get money together. This fight will be won."

Rackets of the Bund type follow a pattern. In them the defense fund is one of the familiar devices. Having found a soft touch like the thousands of gullibles who provided Kuhn an easy living and a constant flow of funds, it is not to be wondered that his successors are anxious to continue the Bund as a dues and assessment shakedown.—Detroit News.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN

Health And Diet

Result of Man's Fight For Life.

—By DR. CLENDENING

A book which in these uncertain times for mankind's future, should be in every home, certainly in every college and high school library, is Otto Neurath's Modern Man in the Making (A. A. Knopf, 1939).

It shows, largely by means of the new-fashioned and fascinating pictorial graphs, the changes which have occurred in man's life in the modern world—in industry, politics, environment, daily comforts, surroundings, length of life, disease.

The latter subjects are, of course, the ones which interests us in this column.

Taking a clock dial, the author divides it into three sectors—red for work, black for sleep, blue for leisure. The average man (and woman) of the Middle Ages, indeed, up to the 18th century, worked 14 hours of the 24, slept eight and played two. The modern man works eight, sleeps eight and plays eight. You knew that all the time, but on the graph it seems more important.

Tuberculosis, which holds the spotlight in this Christmas seal period, is dealt with on the... Never have I seen a more ... ing representation of ... tionship of poverty to tuberculosis. Three Brooklyn districts are compared—Flatbush, Bedford and Red Hook-Gowanus.

The average rent and a symbol of the kind of house or apartment inhabited are shown on one side of a line—on the other side a graveyard with crosses. The crosses represent the deaths per 10,000 population per annum. In Flatbush the rent is $60, the house has three windows and there are three crosses in the graveyard. In Bedford the rent is $50; two windows; five crosses. In Red Hook-Gowanus the rent is $30; one window; 10 crosses.

Population trends in relation to disease, birth, death and suicide give material for thought.

Is life in the city unhealthy? We have always been taught to believe so. The facts:

Growing urbanization has reduced disease. It has reduced the birth rate and decreased the death rate. In Great Britain, in 1840, 20 per cent of the population lived in towns of 100,000 or over; there were 25 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country. In 1930, in Great Britain, 45 per cent of the population lived in cities of 100,000 or over; there were 15 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country.

We are developing a civilization top-heavy with old people. Arranging the population age groups by decades, from 0-10 years up to 70-80, in 1871 the resultant graph looks like a pyramid; in 1931 it looks like the outline of an apple, with a clean slice off the bottom.

Infant mortality is an old story but it shows up in a revelatory way in the graph. In New York, from 1900-1902, there were 13 graves; in 1930-1932, per same number of population, five and one-half.

"Faithlessness"—What Is It?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

FAITHLESSNESS"—. Every mail brings a score of letters from frantic wives accusing their husbands of that which is, to them, the darkest sin. Pitiful letters, sobbing over lost love. Angry letters railing at ingratitude.. Terrified letters, in the agony of humiliation. And I never read one without wondering!

"Faithlessness"—how strangely good women use that word, narrowing it down to one ugly act. Not, mind you, that I'm making any defense of that act—or underestimating the scar it leaves on marriage. But why should we wives think that there is only one form of "faithlessness"—only one act that scars?

Faithlessness — what does it really mean? Lack of faith. Betrayal or belittling of faith.

But how much faith have most women in most men?

How much faith has the average bride, as she marches to the altar?

From the moment she begins to look with speculative eyes upon her small boy playmates, she is trained to expect the worst. Males, she is assured, are made of coarser clay than females. Men are never to be wholly trusted. Women are naturally sweet and kind, loyal and loving, honest and pure-minded. But men can't be trusted out of your sight!

Daily she sees these precepts put into practice in her home circle. Papa, it is true, seems to be a Regular Guy, yet Dear Mama is constantly conniving against him—warning The Girls not to let Papa know. Evidently there are Darker Depths to Dad than his daughters suspect.

And always there is the vague implication, rising at times to noisy lamentations that Papa has done Mama wrong. How? Details are not forthcoming, but plainly Mama's life since she became a Mrs. has been one long ordeal of silent suffering and supreme sacrifice.

'Didn't she give up the best years of her youth for him? Hasn't she worked her fingers to the bone? Papa, of course, might retort that he's lost a few years himself—and that his brawny mitts no longer wear their baby dimples. But if he has the sense of a woodtick, Papa, by this time, is ten blocks away and breaking all records.

The years pass on and presently Daughter is about to take a Papa of her own. What then? Will she turn her back on all these belittling precepts and memories and proceed to give her husband her full and frank confidence and respect? Will she believe in him, cleave to him, fight for him against all odds?

Don't make me laugh? Of course she won't. Why should she? She will be exactly what she has been taught that every smart wife should be—loving and gay, resourceful and (when it pleases her) tender.

BUT YOU CAN BET YOUR LAST DOLLAR, THAT NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN, SHE'LL HAVE HER TONGUE IN HER CHEEK AND AN ACE UP HER SLEEVE.

Yet she would be utterly outraged if you told her that such acts constitute "unfaithfulness." But they do.

Faithlessness may take a thousand forms. A selfish woman betrays faith as tragically as a sensual man. A conniving wife is as truly unfaithful as a philandering husband.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On Dec. 8, 1801, the first presidential message was read in congress. It was sent by President Jefferson to the Seventh congress.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—While Roosevelt was invoking a moral embargo against shipment of aircraft to Russia, there were between 75 and 100 Russian-employed agents and inspectors in American factories which produce aircraft and defense equipment for the U. S. army and navy. Some are Russians, some are U. S. citizens working for Russia. All are under the direct control of Amtorg, the Soviet purchasing agency in New York.

The two companies which have the largest Russian orders at present are Radio Corporation of America, which is making radio sets for Russian ships and planes; and Wright Aeronautical corporation, which is making planes for the Soviets. Amtorg agents are admitted daily to these plants, to inspect progress of the work on Soviet orders.

War and navy departments are uneasy about this practice, and would prefer to exclude all foreigners from plants producing equipment for U. S. forces. But government policy thus far has made no discrimination between foreigners; a Russian or Japanese or German who applies through the state department for a permit to visit or inspect a plant is given the same courtesy as a Briton or a Brazilion.

Probability is that the question will come up in congress at the next session, and an exclusion policy may be enacted into law.

Meanwhile the navy department keeps a running report on all foreign inspectors, to show whom they represent, what plants they visit and what they see from day to day.

Legion Commanders.

PAUL McNUTT, platinum-haired czar of Federal Security, still isn't quite sure whether he was taken for a ride at the recent executive council meeting of the American Legion in Indianapolis.

An ex-national commander, McNutt was invited to attend the meeting, supposedly to make a speech. Also present was Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, another ex-national commander. The two men are friends—on the surface.

As the meeting wore on, no one called upon McNutt. Finally newly elected Commander Ray Kelly rose and said, "We have with us today an outstanding Washington official who is doing a great job and who is well known by every one of you. He is a former national commander and a great friend of every Legionnaire." Then, after a dramatic pause, he added, "It is with great pleasure that I present—Louis A. Johnson."

McNutt, who had quietly collected himself in his chair, relaxed. He remained during Johnson's talk, but as soon as it was over made a bee-line for the nearest exit—with Kelly in hot pursuit.

"Wait a minute, Paul," he pleaded. "What's your hurry? I was going to ask you to say something."

"Sorry, Ray," snapped McNutt, "but I have a dinner engagement in Martinsville (his home) and I've got to hurry along."

Kelly finally persuaded McNutt to return the following day to address the council, but Kelly had to talk fast and furiously to do it.

Russian Objective.

IF YOU take out your map of the Scandinavian countries, you can understand why Russia is attacking Finland in two different regions—at the extreme north near the Arctic Ocean, and at the extreme south, the most prosperous and populated part of Finland.

The southern attack is to crush the nerve center of Finnish resistance, capture Helsinki, and end further fighting. However, the northern attack may be more significant.

It is expected by Allied strategists that Russia will march straight across the northern tip of Finland, then on across northern Norway and Sweden to the Atlantic. This area, sparsely populated, should be easier to conquer than the south.

These three countries—Finland, Sweden and Norway—are bunched together in the north like three fingers joining a hand. Geographically the regions are a unit. Economically they are extremely wealthy. Northern Finland contains the mines of the International Nickel company. Northern Sweden contains the famous Swedish iron mines, perhaps the finest in the world. And northern Norway is the area of her best fisheries.

But perhaps more important than all these in the eyes of Russia is direct access to the Atlantic. This, it must always be remembered, is the key to Russian policy, whether under Stalin or the Czar—access to the open sea.

Question: What will Hitler do if Russia cuts across Scandinavia, practically encircling Germany?

Finnish Notes.

IF U. S. military observers are right, Russia will have a tough time taking all of Finland, though it will be easy to take some of it. . . . Stalin chose a bad time of year for his attack, whereas Hitler pounced on Poland during ideal fall weather. . . . Hitler carefully had built five wide concrete highways to the Polish border, could attack from five different directions. The Russians can attack from only two, both full of hazards. . . . No modern armed force except the U. S. marines has successfully landed on foreign shores under heavy fire, and our experts doubt if the Russians can land along the southern shore of Finland around Helsinki. . . . The British tried to land at Gallipoli during the World war, and that disaster is historic. . . . Prince Mike Cantacuzene, now farming in Florida, served as a shave-tail in the Czar's army under Baron Mannerheim, present head of the Finnish army. He thinks the cold-eyed, high-born Mannerheim will give a good account of himself against Joe Stalin of Tiflis.

Words of Wisdom.

Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use.—(Johnson)

Hints on Etiquette.

If a girl meets a young man and would like to see him again, the best thing to do is for her to have a gathering of young people in her home and include him in the invitations.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Andrew Johnson served in the senate, and John Quincy Adams in the house of representatives.
2. The bank to the right of a person looking down stream.
3. An elastic, fibrous substance that grows on the roof of the mouth of certain species of whales.

How Father Felt

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN my father had important letters to write, I have seen him hunt through the old secretary to find a sheet of paper and the ink. His weathered face was thoughtful. His lips were firmly pressed, in a way he had, writing letters was not a task he liked to do, but these must be done. He drew the deep chair up beside the living room lamp and propped his paper upon the arm of it. His feet, in their white-soled socks were thrust into a worn pair of slippers. The light glinted on his white hair, and the stubby pen in his knotty hand began to move, hesitatingly across the paper, while his mouth pursed itself and kept up a working of the lips and tongue, in rhythm with his effort.

The kitchen door flew open, about that time, and in we came, three roistering half grown boys, chasing each other in a friendly feud. We jostled the old man's elbow as we passed, and he raised irate ineffectual eyebrows in a vain attempt to keep his train of thought, and correct his sons' behavior by one look. It was no use . . . and father's letters were few and far between.

My own roistering has come home to roost. When I sit down, at home, to get together a few connected ideas, three little boys are certain to appear, full of questions and chatter and mischief, while a fourth, from his corner, chimes in with a lusty tryout of vocal chords. It goes like this: "I'm not hard to tackle, Daddy, if they can catch me. But they couldn't, so I made a touchdown. . . ."

"Yes, and wore out both knees of your pants. Mom says . . ."

"Go on, and play," says I, looking very fierce, and clutching vainly for the thought I had been getting into words.

"Play with us Daddy. It's after supper, and you promised . . . you know you promised yesterday."

So I tumble with them on the floor until their mother comes and says I'm the worst of the lot and chases me back to my pencil and paper, and carries them off to bed. Presently everything is still, and they are asleep. The house is warm and cozy, with the swoop and drip of the wind and rain outside only accenting my comfort. But by that time the writing muse has fled upon the wings of sleep, and I sit and doze with the lamplight mellow upon my nearly bald spot and my feet propped toward the stove. Tomorrow I will write with children in my lap and under my feet and in my hair. Tonight is too serene . . . it lacks something. I know how father used to feel when he put away his blank paper and went to bed.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

WHEN they came out of the cathedral, the bells were pealing joyously. Fabienne looked up at the spires and said that the stars were clear and bright against the midnight sky, the avenue very still about them. She half expected to hear the angels sing.

"Like it?" Bill said.

"Yes." She couldn't say any more about it. Shed say something silly or irrelevant to cover up what she was feeling. Later she could tell Mark about it. She might have been able later to talk to Bill about it, if things were different. To Nicky, never.

Bill tucked her arm under his left one. Ellen was at his right. "Taxi!" he whistled.

Fabienne said, "Will you come back with me? It isn't very Christmasy, but I'll have supper sent up."

A cab pulled up beside the curb "Let's go back to my place. It's a mess, but there's a tree to trim,' Ellen urged.

Fabienne found herself in the cab in spite of her protests that were not exactly feeble. In the mood she was in, she definitely did not want to go back with Bill and Ellen. But they would not listen to her protests.

The tree was a small one, but it took an inordinate amount of consideration to find the proper place to put it The big table wouldn't do. Nor would the small one. What about the wide window ledge? No, it was better on the small table. They tied red ribbons on the green wreaths and lighted candles in the window.

Ellen made coffee and something with chicken and cream in a chafing dish. Bill got out his pipe and for a little while Fabienne forgot that Bill was Ellen's Bill.

At 3 o'clock, Fabienne said, "Good heavens, is it as late as that? This has been a wonderful Christmas Eve. I had no idea. . .

"I'll take you home," Bill said.

He kissed Ellen. Fabienne had turned away and so she only knew that he had kissed her She did not know it was not a lover's kiss. "Nice work, Ellen," he said.

The stars were gone when they came out into the street and a light snow was filtering from the skies ,powdery and dry and somehow warm.

"Hope we can get a cab Don't seem to be any around," Bill said, turning up the collar of Fabienne's coat.

"Could you stand a walk?"

"I could," he said promptly. "What about you? You've had a long day."

So she had, and a long, long walk before. But she felt no fatigue. Years seemed to have passed since the early evening and she was refreshed, light. Her feet had wings on them. "I'd prefer to walk," she told him.

They were silent for a little time, walking with matching footsteps on the clean white sidewalks in the still, white night.

"Tell me what you were going to do before the bad news came,' Bill said.

"Nothing important. It didn't seem a bit important then. If she had told him how disappointed she was because she was not going to the Christmas ball at the Hunt club, she wouldn't have done it well, because now she couldn't remember why she had been disappointed. "I would have done what I've always done. Given and exchanged presents. Gone to parties."

"And they're no longer important?" he asked, not conversationally, but as if her answer meant something important to him.

"At the moment they seem too remote to consider their value But you, Bill? What do you usually do on Christmas Day?" That was important to her

"Drop in at the hospital. Wait for calls."

"It sounds dreary"

"I thought it might—to you. I find it pretty interesting"

"Of course," she said contritely. "But I thought . . . oh, Christmas one likes to spend with people one loves."

"Does one?" he said, smiling at her, amused.

She said, "I'd like a cigaret if you've got one."

"Sorry, I haven't. You smoke too much anyway."

If anyone else had said that to her, she'd have given him a cool look and mentioned politely that that was her business. But because Bill said it, she felt a small glow. He had noticed her. He was giving her orders. Not professional orders, but nice friendly ones, as if he felt a right to give them.

She said, "I prefer a pipe. But it takes a strong, silent man to get away with it. Are you a strong, silent man, Bill?",

He shook his head. "I yap all the time, am afraid of mice, blondes and efficient nurses. Do I disappoint you?"

"Yes," she said, you do."

He said, "I do, huh?"

"I wish you had an Adam's apple, two feet less of height and a voice that squeaks." There, silly, she'd said it, spoken her thoughts aloud.

They walked for perhaps half a city block before he said anything Then all he said, was "Why?"

But Fabienne had got herself in check by then and so she said, "Because then I wouldn't have found you a good walking companion and I'd have had another hour's sleep." It was pretty weak, but that was the best she could do.

They were in the Fifties and nearly to her hotel. The rest of the way they walked in silence. Or talked of things that made no matter.

There was no one in the lobby when they walked in Bill took her to her elevator

She stood there for a moment looking at him. His face looked a little grim. She had hurt him by what she said, but she didn't know how to unsay it

She said, "Bill, I didn't mean anything by that silly speech. You know the inane things one says at 3 o'clock in the morning? I'm so tired my tongue doesn't make any more sense than my mind."

His gaze flashed to her hair, lingered there as if pleased. "The snowdrops have melted. They hang like diamonds on chains of fine gold."

She thought it quite the nicest thing she had ever heard. "Really?" To cover up her pleasure she drawled. "I'll be you tell that to all the nurses you pretend intimidate you."

"I'll bet it's nice hair to touch," he said, crinkling his eyes at her.

Hastily she held out her hand. "Good night, Bill. Thank you for making this the . . . the most memorable Christmas eve I've ever spent."

"Good night, Fabienne."

Then quite suddenly he bent and kissed her on her cool cheek—the way that he had kissed Ellen.

She was pink and hot and disturbed when she got in the elevator and reminded herself that it was a brotherly kiss. She didn't want any more brotherly kisses and she had resolutely put the thought of any other kind out of her wishes.

But she wanted Bill for a friend. THAT was the way to conquer wanting him any other way.

FINDS WAY TO MEASURE SPEED

IOWA CITY, Ia. —(INS)— Confetti and a camera are used in a new method of measuring direction and velocity of surface currents in river models through an invention of Prof. C. J. Posey of the University of Iowa Engineering college

Professor Posey explained he scattered confetti on the surface and took a time exposure. Motion of the confetti is shown as streaks on the photograph. Just before the end of the time exposure, the model is illuminated by a flash bulb, which puts a bright spot on the downstream end of each streak, showing the current's direction.

MAKES BOMBS

PASCO, Wash.—(INS)—Inspired by war news telling of the work of depth bombs in destroying submarines, 13-year-old Zane Casey decided to make some bombs for himself. Using powder from fire crackers and a hand-made detonator, he immersed his invention in his mother's newly-installed basement washtubs while she beamed with pride on her off-spring. The explosion rocked the house and blasted the tub from stem to stern.

Toledo Calls on FBI to Help Smash White Slave Ring

RAIDS REVEAL LARGE SCALE VICE TRAFFIC

Evidence Indicates Cities From Toledo to Dallas Linked in Racket.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO — Assistance of the federal bureau of investigation was asked by Toledo authorities today after raids by the morals squad produced evidence indicating traffic in vice between Toledo and cities as far away as Dallas, Tex., and New Orleans.

Six persons were in custody here. A 32-year-old man and his 27-year-old wife were arrested first and a notebook in their possession furnished police with information that led to the other arrests.

The woman told police she came here three weeks ago and that previously she had been working in vice places in Chicago, Dallas, New Orleans and Detroit. Police found letters and telegrams from her husband, urging her to come to Toledo.

The notebook, police said, contained names of bellhops and others, with their telephone numbers. Police believed those named were connected with the white slave traffic in some way.

The others arrested were two men, 30 and 32 years old, and two sisters, 23 and 24, of Tiffin, O. All six were held on charges of suspicion.

Moral squad officers today checked other names in the notebook. All were to be questioned.

Police also found telegrams from girls in several states to Toledo persons. These were taken as an indication of the existence of a vice traffic. Police thought that women had been brought to Ohio from Texas, through Louisville.

BOOST HOLDINGS

3 Officials of Humphryes Add 102 Shares in October.

Three principal officers and stockholders of the Humphryes Manufacturing company of Mansfield have increased their holdings in the firm's common stock by a total of 102 shares, the October report of the regional office of the Securities and Exchange commission showed today.

W. Gerald Moore, president and principal stockholder, added 69 shares to his holdings, boosting his total to 8,083 shares, the commission said.

Richard G. Fensch, secretary, increased his holdings 23 shares, making a total of 75 shares, while Marion A. Downs, treasurer, added 10 shares for a total of 30.

CUTS COUNTY'S CROSSING COSTS

State Revises Financing Plan for Route 30 Project, Asks $9,000 More From City.

the state an answer. The revised finance schedule was submitted at the request of commissioners and Mayor Hunter who said they wanted to "see what we are paying for."

In his letter Beightler asked the city for a flat contribution of $13,000, plus the $17,000.

Total construction cost of the project was set at $460,000 by the state highway department, while the additional expenditure for highway construction over the project was expected to boost the total expense to a little more than $500,000.

The $40,000 now requested from the county is less than one-third of the $125,000 the state asked several months ago. The county's share was later cut to $75,000, $60,000, $50,000, and now $40,000.

Under the state's plan, an overhead grade elimination would be built at the B. and O. crossing just west of the city limits and a subway at the Erie railroad a mile west of the B. and O.

GROUP NAMED TO PICK STUDENTS FOR PILOT TRAINING PROGRAM

The selection of students who will be named to receive flying instructions under the Civil Aeronautics Authority civilian pilot training program in Mansfield was in the hands of a special committee today.

The committee was named last night by officers of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical Association, sponsors of the program here.

Those selected were George J. Kochenderfer, chairman, C. L. Van Derau, Paul Tappan, Fred Miller, Harold Blackford, C. A. Hines, Lydon Beam, Albert Richards, H. G. Brunner, C. F. Routzahn, Dr. W. B. Abrams, William Dworski, H. E. O'Dell, W. R. Mehl and G. L. Watson.

The committee is scheduled to meet next Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce to formulate plans for the selection of 10 students and five alternates who will be named to receive ground and flight training.

Ground courses are expected to be started as soon as the candidates are selected. Flight courses will be held from April to September.

Under the CAA regulations only candidates between the ages of 18 and 25 who can pass a rigid physical and mental examination will be accepted. The cost is a $40 entrance fee, part of which pays for the examinations.

The program in Mansfield is part of the CAA's plan to train 700 non-college citizens as pilots in a program similar to the one provided for 10,000 college and university students.

Mansfield is one of the three Ohio cities selected for training centers. The others are Cleveland and Toledo.

HITS BRUTALITY

Lorain Sheriff Told Police 'Beat Up' Prisoner.

ELYRIA —(AP)— The Lorain county grand jury will meet Monday to investigate charges of alleged brutality against Lorain police officers, Assistant Prosecutor William G. Wickens said today.

Sheriff Carl R. Finegan said Gerald Donovan, 28, of Lorain, now a county jail prisoner, reported he was "beaten up" by Lorain police and required medical treatment for a swollen jaw. Finegan investigated Donovan's assertions, and Wickens decided to call the grand jury after questioning three witnesses.

Donovan was transferred from the city to county jail Nov. 29 after police charged him with breaking and entering a radio shop.

I noticed advertising on Williams Formula which rang so true to the ailments I experienced, I tried a bottle and was so pleased with results I have since used several bottles. KENNEDY AGAIN URGES 3RD TERM

Ambassador to Britain Says It Would Take Two Years to Learn U. S. Affairs.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Again indorsing President Roosevelt for a third term, Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to Great Britain told reporters upon entering the White House for a conference with the chief executive this morning that American entry into the European war would bring "chaos beyond anybody's dreams."

"It strikes me that with the political, economic and social problems facing us, accentuated by the war, no matter how brilliant or earnest a man may be it would take at least the two years for him to be able to efficiently conduct the affairs of this country," Kennedy said.

"At least we know the Roosevelt policy is to keep us out of war, and our entrance into the war at this time would mean chaos beyond anybody's dreams."

Kennedy said he expected to make a few reports on the European situation to his chief.

Arriving in Washington from New York by air, the ambassador said he would make some suggestions for aiding the American merchant marine to operate under the drastic provisions of the new cash-and-carry neutrality act.

He explained that he had a plan to permit the use of American merchant ships between United States ports and all British possessions not in the actual war zone. Traffic in American boats between the United States and most of Great Britain's possessions outside the war zone, however, is already permitted under special exemptions written into the neutrality act.

The diplomat also told reporters that he saw prospects for a real expansion and boom for the southern lumber industry from inevitable curtailment of the Scandinavian industry because of the war.

The meeting gave the president his first opportunity, since the outbreak of the war in Europe, to get an inside picture of the situation from an American diplomat who has been on the scene.

Shows above is the group about the table after they had "put away" bowls and bowls of the steaming stew, prepared by Mrs. Miller.

REDS BLOCKADE FINN HARBORS

Neutral Ships Speeded From Ports as Moscow Orders Shipping Blocked.

dinavian states simply would take cognizance of the blockade, leaving it up to shippers to decide for themselves whether to run the risks involved in defying it.

Hold Blockade Valid.

The fact that Russia has not declared war against Finland is not involved in the situation, according to juridical experts here. They said that a state of war existed nevertheless and that if Russia's navy could maintain a cordon of warships off Finland's coast the blockade would be regarded as valid.

(In international law, blockade "to be binding must be effective—the blockading power must be able to enforce its declaration for its blockade to be recognized.)

New activity of the Red fleet in Finnish waters was indicated yesterday by reports that the German steamer Oliva, arriving at the Finnish port of Mantyluoto, had been fired on by a Russian submarine Tuesday.

Russian warships bombarded Finland's southern coast yesterday, it was said at Helsinki, but were held off at undisclosed points by Finnish coast defense batteries.

Nazis Emphasize Value of 'Friendship.'

BERLIN—(INS)—Nazi Germany today sharply warned Sweden, Norway and Denmark to consider the advantages of German friendship before it is too late.

On the heels of a statement by the official German news agency DNB advising the Scandinavian countries to remain aloof "from suggestions of the British warmongers," authoritative German quarters lent pointed new emphasis to the declaration.

Reliable information from Stockholm, Oslo and Copenhagen indicated to Berlin observers that there already is grave concern in these Scandinavian states over the widening gulf of antagonism between them and Nazi Germany.

"The Scandinavian states will do well to consider the true situation before over-stepping the limits of their anti-German tendencies," a spokesman said.

"The Reich is taking note of the fact that a friendly tone toward Germany is rarely perceivable in utterances by their statesmen.

"This we will remember if in the future the Swedes and the Norwegians try to form some hasty friendship with Germany in the eleventh hour, as Finland tried to do."

The Soap He Used Cost More Than Heating His Bath Water

Rich man, poor man, beggar man — all can afford the luxury of a gas-heated hot water bath. The cost of gas* for heating water is less than the cost of soap that is used. Natural gas is by far the most economical means of furnishing dependable hot water service in the home. This 24-hour service makes it constantly available for bath, laundry, kitchen, general cleaning and emergency sickness. If you paid for gas to heat water as it is used, you would be dealing in small fractions of pennies. Break down your gas bill into the many times gas served you each day and you'll find it packed with bargains. Yes, your gas cent is well spent.

One Killed, Two Missing as Blast Wrecks Towboat

6 OTHERS HURT IN EXPLOSION ON OHIO RIVER

Terrific Blast Destroys Boat While Crew Gets Up Steam in Preparation for Trip.

(By International News Service)

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — At least one person was killed, two were missing, and six others were suffering today from serious injuries and burns received when an explosion destroyed the towboat Rawn while the craft was docked at Huntington.

The dead man was Jess Plants, fireman, of Point Pleasant, W. Va. Injured were Capt. W. M. Wright, Huntington; Robert Smith, pilot, of Gallipolis, Mrs. Miriam Kirkpatrick, chambermaid, Chesapeake, W. Va.; a Mrs. Austin, cook, of Point Pleasant, and deckhands Thomas Ash, of Robert, W. Va., and J. E. Beaver, Grimms Landing, W. Va.

The missing were G. G. Gebhardt, Huntington, and Paul Starcher, of Rome, O.

Captain Wright, Smith, Ash, Beaver and Mrs. Kirkpatrick were in serious condition in St. Mary's hospital. Rescue crews searched the wreckage for possible other bodies and the river around the craft was being dragged.

The Rawn had been tied up for 12 hours while her boilers were being cleaned. A crew of 15 was engaged in getting up steam when the explosion occurred. The terriffic blast hurled debris nearly 100 yards and lodged wreckage on the flood wall.

Blown From Boat.

Charles McConnell, 35, who had applied for a job on the teamer and was on board at the time of the blast, could tell investigators little.

"I was sitting in the pilot house when the explosion occurred," he related. "There were two explosions in quick succession.

"I'm not sure just what happened, but I think I was blown clear of the boat. I found myself, dazed, a hundred feet away from the boat, but I wasn't hurt."

Employes of the Ross Concrete company, first to reach the wreckage, also said two explosions rocked the vessel. They rescued Smith, the pilot, as he hung on the cable with which the boat was moored.

Pope In Tears as He Says 15-Minute Prayer For Peace

ROME — (INS) — Pale and in tears, Pope Pius XII visited the Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore today and for 15 minutes prayed fervently on behalf of peace.

The pontiff invoked the intercession of God to "restore peace and concord in this world so afflicted and divided."

Replying to an address of welcome by Cardinal Verde, the pope invoked the special protection of the Virgin Mary "for all in danger."

His visit to the Basilica coincided with the feast of the Immaculate conception and marked the 40th anniversary of the pope's celebration of his first mass at the Basilica.

Former King Alfonso and Queen Victoria Ena of Spain as well as the prince of the Asturias were present, reviving rumors of a reconciliation between Alfonso and his estranged wife and their restoration to the Spanish throne.

Hunt Suspect In Murder of Consulate Aid

Up and Down THE STREET

The joke was on County Recorder Howard Wenning, retiring president of the State Recorders' association, and the other Ohio recorders at their annual meeting in Columbus yesterday when Gov. John W. Bricker, one of the speakers, asked them if they knew what the "doomsday book" was. All of them professed ignorance, and then the governor explained that it was the first recorder's record, used many years ago to preserve property transactions and other official business. "It made us all feel pretty silly to be shown up like that at a recorders' convention," Wenning said.

Just to make the railroad men feel at home the toastmaster at last night's Central Ohio Traffic club Christmas party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel used a bell from a locomotive to get the attention of his audience. When E. J. Dean of Cleveland, the toastmaster, pulled the bell cord and the big bell echoed through the hotel ballroom, one of the railroaders remarked: "That's usually the signal for us railroad men to start going places." But they disregarded it last night.

Mike Horvath and John Pfahler of Coach Paul Snyder's 1939 Tyger eleven, who have been selected to accompany a Central Ohio football team to Miami, Fla., for a post-season game, are not the only Mansfielders who will be away from the home fires on Christmas day because of their participation in athletics. Another is Ed Chatlain, Wittenberg college's only three-sport letterman, who will accompany the Lutheran cagers on a Christmas basketball tour of the east. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain, Olivesburg road.

There probably isn't a Mansfield college student who is any busier than Elizabeth Miller, 137 Hammond avenue, who is a senior at Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea. She is president of Co-Croft, the women's cooperative house where residents are entirely self-governing, and she is secretary to the Dean of Women. She is president of the Education club, president of the Modern Language club. Other campus activities include the Youth Forum, college Y. W. C. A., and a few other incidentals. But in the meantime "Beth" finds time for study because she already has the required credits for two major subjects. She plans to take up social service work after graduation and hopes to specialize in child welfare work.

MECHANIC NEW TORSO SUSPECT

Handwriting May Link Him to Cleveland 'Mad Butcher' Deaths, Police Say.

CLEVELAND—The handwriting of a 26-year-old automobile mechanic may link him with anonymous letters concerning Cleveland's 12 "torso slayings," police believed today.

The mechanic was the latest suspect arrested in Detective Peter Merylo's seemingly endless search for clues to the identity of the "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run."

Merylo said the mechanic's handwriting would be compared with that in letters mailed to Cleveland police from Los Angeles six months ago, advising authorities of a respite in the torso killer's activities in this area and reporting a victim was buried at Los Angeles.

This sent Los Angeles authorities on a search of the burial grounds described in the letter, but failed to locate a victim.

Kingsbury Run, where the bodies of several victims were found, yielded the new suspect. Railroad detectives took him in custody and turned him over to police. Merylo said the suspect told him he came here from San Francisco six weeks ago, but denied any connection with the Los Angeles letters.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania authorities gave more credence to the theory the "mad butcher" had transferred his operations for a time to "murder swamp" near New Castle. District Attorney John Lamoree said at New Castle a two-month investigation of a "swamp" slaying indicated the "torso killer" might have been responsible.

LOVE WINS OUT, LAW PROTECTS LOWTHER AND HIS BRIDE-TO-BE

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Love has won a month-long struggle with locksmiths, and Eileen Herrick and George Lowther, III, meet today under the law's protection to plan their wedding.

A court order prohibits any further interference by the girl's wealthy parents or their private detectives and nurses.

Miss Herrick was brought before County Judge L. Barron Hill in Riverhead, Long Island, yesterday evening, her father holding one arm and a detective, John J. Price, holding the other, in response to her lover's petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Hill, after hearing all sides, ruled:

"Eileen Herrick is free to leave her parents' home, but as long as she lives with her parents and is supported by them she is under their control."

Then, in the presence of the judge, objecting parents and attorneys, the lovers were permitted their first kiss in many weeks.

The deciding factor in the case was a letter, smuggled out of the summer home of the girl's parents at Wainscott, 25 miles from Riverhead, and presented by Lowther as an exhibit that Miss Herrick loved him.

Miss Herrick's father, Walter R. Herrick, former city park commissioner, told Judge Hill that he objected to Lowther's attentions to his daughter and did not believe he loved her, and as a result barred Lowther from seeing Miss Herrick.

BACK FROM MEET

Three County Officials Attend State Convention.

County Recorder Howard Wenning, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, and Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck were back on the job today after attending the state recorders' and auditors' conventions in Columbus for the past three days.

Wenning, who has headed the Ohio Recorders' association for the past year, relinquished his post yesterday to Jesse A. Wilson of St. Clairsville, the new president. Wenning presided during the convention.

Speaking at the auditors' session, held simultaneously with the recorders' meeting, Ferd F. Becker, head of the county affairs division of the State Taxation department, said he considered the state's matching of local funds for poor relief "a mistake because it prompts cities to seek large sums from the state treasury regardless of need."

Under a new state law, the state matches funds on the basis of about 37 per cent to the local community's 63 per cent.

POLICE SEEKING EX-PUGILIST IN SLAYING PROBE

Bloody Fingerprints Give Clew in Death of German in Brooklyn Home.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Bloody fingerprints found in the home of murdered Dr. Walter Engelberg, German consular secretary, have been identified as those of a former pugilist now believed in Florida, it was learned today.

The fingerprints, one of the few tangible clews to the person who killed the 42-year-old German at his Brooklyn home Wednesday, were identified at the police laboratory, it was learned. That would indicate that the suspect has a police record.

The prints have been flown to Florida. Police there will be asked to apprehend the suspect.

Sources close to police investigating the crime of vengeance said the pugilist suspect was of German extraction. They said that his size would indicate he was the wearer of a large bathrobe and size 11 slippers found in the home where Engelberg's body, its head smashed, was found.

As New York police continued with their investigation, the federal Bureau of Investigation moved into the case to prepare a thorough report that may be submitted to the German government.

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, has been here since Wednesday, soon after the murder was discovered, directing the work.

Two suspects were sought. One was described as a large man, whose bathrobe and bedroom slippers were found in Dr. Engelberg's house. The other was said to be a 23-year-old Swede.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Rich Living, Power Wait Exploiters of Political Religious Freedom In U. S.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Few of us, apparently, appreciate the opportunities for profit, good living and power which await exploitation by a live organizer with a loud voice and a silent conscience.

Religious and political freedom are so precious, and the rights of labor are held in such elaborate respect that molestation of any reasonably agile grafter were almost unthinkable.

The revenue act is the one by which the government nowadays is popularly expected to suppress all forms of vice to which no other laws apply or which local or state authorities do not rebuke. This is long and wide, but it has its limitations, and so has the courage of the federal government.

It says that religious organizations need not file returns or pay taxes if no part of their revenues inure to the benefit of individuals and if they keep out of politics However, most of the established and respected religious organizations do use part of their revenues to pay their clergy, and most of them do engage in political activity from time to time, but are exempted, nevertheless, because any attempt to crack down would raise a terrible fuss.

Labor organizations enjoy specific exemption, although, the government does have a legal right to examine their books, but political movements are thoroughbred sacred cows.

At present, a number of religious rackets are being operated—largely by mail, too—but as long as the operators avoid obscenity in their literature and keep within the state laws regarding morals they are safe. A god-man running a racket in the role of supreme prophet-priest or lama puts himself in sole, unquestioned charge of the money, and if he pays an income tax on the salary which he allows himself out of the kitty he is all right with the law.

No authority can prevent imposition on bewitched old men and women, who may then be tossed aside in poverty, or forbid vicious racketeering on the poor in the form of payments for mail-order courses in religian. Religius freedom demands this, and if the cult also takes a political turn, advocating rubber money or war against Wall Street in a vague but clamorous way, the additional issue of political freedom may be raised.

It is not necessary—in fact, it is inadvisable—that such a political group nominate or indorse candidates. It is wiser just to be against most things and most candidates and proposals and to remain without definite political form but retaining the religious form.

Labor organization is such that one labor group may issue a charter to a purely imaginary subordinate union with the power to call strikes and with business agents or personal representatives of the president to call on employers and shake them down for graft, which will be called loans in the improbable event of their being discovered by the internal revenue.

If a union holds meetings only at long intervals, and if inquisitive rank and file members get broken legs on the way home, curiosity as to the bank roll abates to nothing. And then, if the books unfortunately burn up or vanish, it is very difficult for any authority to trace the income.

It is also bad political taste to question union leaders too closely, for the racketeer in labor, like the gentle grafter in religion and political reform, is quick to cry persecution in the cause of the forgotten men whom he represents.

In California recently the ham 'n' Eggs racket claimed 350,000 members at one time, paying one cent each per day. This would have indicated an income of $3500 a day, and the promoters, with one-third of the voters of the state behind them, called themselves a voluntary association and claimed exemption from certain laws.

The federals fixed them, though. The federals looked over their treasury and looked over the men, and assessed them, anyway; but still they had the remainder and the political and financial power to rattle a great state as though an earthquake had struck.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Apologies for offering an essay with whiskers, but it does seem that beards have cropped up too much of late.

Beards have always been a movie problem. Even before Orson Welles tempted the razor wits of sundry beard-belittlers, they were with us as a bristling question. Ezra Stone, as much a one-man band on the stage as Welles, is in pictures now and still beardless but you never can tell.

The recent Goldwyn-Metro tiff over Walter Brennan's chinshield was merely another chapter in the controversy, crux of which is to beard or not to beard.

Mr. Metro wanted Brennan (smooth) to do some added scenes on his picture for them, and Mr. Goldwyn wanted Brennan (rough) to get rougher for his picture. The brief squabble served, fundamentally, to call attention to two new films, at Mr. Goldwyn's and Mr. Metro's respectively, but it also served to demonstrate how often out here a man's livelihood can hang by a few hairs.

This is so true that a whole section of the town's working population is referred to collectively as "beards," meaning men so equipped as to lend authenticity to western films and others requiring spinach-studded atmosphere.

The "beards," however, are by no means so stable a group as to warrant registry as such—in a special classification—at Central Casting. "They grow and they go," as the lady there explained it. "The 'beards' shave too."

By the large, however, it's the same "beards" you see around the sets. This year, particularly, has been so good for westerns that many a razor has been put away until parlor drama makes a comeback.

Stars never have to bother about earning capacity, but their whiskers are thorns from time to time. Remember the upheaval about a bearded Gable for "Parnell"—when Gable wanted whiskers and the studio, abetted by a horror-stricken army of women idolaters; said no? Well, Gable's rough-bearded now for "Strange Cargo."

Horror of beards dates back to silent films when a hero could live in the jungle for years and remain clean-shaven; just as a heroine after an ocean-dunking could come up smiling, each golden curl in place (Oh, I know, I know—Tarzan is beardless even today, but didn't you know about the lions that chew off the hairs?)

In those days whiskers flourished only on Civil war generals and Abe Lincoln, but Paul Muni long since has given them the aura of his stellar approval. And since Brian Aherne survived the appalling blonde set he wore in "Juarez" the whisker is definitely "in"—if not as an asset, at least as an adjunct not necessarily fatal to male "glamour."

I wouldn't be surprised to see Freddie Bartholomew bloom out with a Van Dyke soon. To note it is to skid from chin to chest, but it's such a happy sign of a new movie attitude toward growing-up baby stars that a good skid won't hurt.

Saw a scene for "Swiss Family Robinson" today in which Freddie, caught smoking by Tim Holt, proudly bares his chest to prove his manhood! Nothing is visible there, but a few years ago all the movie mammas in town would have collapsed at the implications of such a scene.

Fredric March has been signed by M-G-M for the leading role in "Susan and God," the stage hit of last season in which Gertrude Lawrence starred. Greer Garson, who made her screen debut in "Mr. Chips," and whose current picture, "Remember?" is booked for early showing in Mansfield, will play Susan. Both March and Miss Garson will report to the Culver City studio after the first of the year. George Cukor will direct and Hunt Stromberg will produce the Rachel Crothers' stage show for the screen. It will be March's first picture since his return to Hollywood from New York where he appeared in the stage play "The American Way" last season.

They're Good Tricks.

Many a man who witnesses "Eternally Yours," booked for the Madison tomorrow, will envy David Niven his ability to make his wife disappear at will, kiss him although she is boiling mad, and create a beautiful woman out of chemicals. He can make birds and animals disappear at will—but he can't do the same for those lipstick stains on his cheek and collar. Niven plays the title role in "The Great Arturo" and Loretta Young is seen as his wife and assistant. Hugh Herbert, Billie Burke, C. Aubrey Smith, Zazu Pitts, Broderick Crawford and Virginia Fields are in the supporting cast. Jean Hersholt in "Meet Dr. Christian" is the second feature.

Texas Cinderella.

The luscious little beauty who came into movie consciousness with her first picture, "Hotel for Women," now has a leading role opposite Tyrone Power in "Daytime Wife." Linda Darnell, the Texas Cinderella whose father is a postal clerk in Dallas, is starred in this, her second picture, largely because she won rave notices everywhere with her screen debut, "Daytime Wife" is a gay version of the old formula of husband-strays, wife-strays-to-bring-him-back. Wendy Barrie is the cause of husband straying and Warren William helps wife to bring him back. Binnie Barnes and Joan Davis are in the cast. The picture opens tomorrow at the Ohio.

500 Years From Now.

A new serial opens at the Ritz theater today, which revolves around the amazing adventures of Buck Rogers in an amazing imaginative conception of the world as it will be 500 years from now. Such things as space-ships, paralyzing guns, death rays, ray guns and de-gravity belts, are used to tell the story, which is in 12 chapters. Larry Crabbe is seen as Buck. The bill is completed with "The Witness Vanishes," and a Western feature, The Three Mesquiteers in "New Frontiers."

Sings and Shoots.

Fred Scott, who sings as well as rides and shoots, is the hero of "Rangers' Round-Up," a Majestic attraction. Scott, as a ranger, is engaged in running down a band of mail and express robbers, and does it to the clatter of hoofs, the whiz of bullets and such musical numbers as "Jo Jo From Mexico" and "The Terrior of Termite Valley." Also shown is "Tell No Tales," an exciting screen yarn of a newspaper man who is handed a clue to a murder and kidnaping when he receives a $100 dollar bill. Melvyn Douglas and Louise Platt are in the cast.

Autry at the Park.

Republic Pictures didn't have to go to the expense of building a set for the making of Gene Autry's picture, "The Big Show." The company just went to the Dallas Exposition in Texas and made the picture there. "The Big Show" is one of the two pictures at the Park. The second one is "The Count of Monte Cristo," which is still one of the most dramatic "revenge" stories in the world's literature. Robert Donat plays the man who came back from prison with his buried treasure and Elissa Landi is seen as the sweetheart who married another.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Of course! We'll all be there in ten minutes," I said. "But tell me, how is Father?"

"Improving rapidly," she said, "but still too weak for all he tries to do. However, there's no doing anything with him. I'm very glad you're back. You're the only person to whom he pays the slightest attention."

"And then only upon very rare occasions," I told her, smiling. "But I'll do my best to make him behave."

"If you can't, nobody can," she said, and hurried back to her patient, while Mary, taking advantage of Dicky's pre-occupation with Junior and Roderick, of the meticulous attentions Lillian and Harry were paying to Mother Graham, and of Katherine's apparently cordial welcome to Edith, came close to me with Noel just behind her and whispered:

"Do you suppose we could slip away for a minute? I've just loads to tell you and ask you."

"Come into my little study," I whispered back and turned unobtrusively away without a backward glance which might attract the attention of my mother-in-law—I knew nobody else would give our departure a second thought.

She was close behind me as I opened my study door, and I looked around for Noel but did not see him.

"Isn't Noel coming with us?" I asked.

She laughed a bit constrainedly. "I tipped him the wink to stay behind," she said, "and he was perfectly willing to lie low. He probably has an inkling of what I'm going to tell you."

She drew a deep breath, evidently nerving herself for revelation.

"What do you think Olina is hatching up now?" she asked.

I smiled reassuringly at her dolorous face.

"It's no use asking me," I told her. "I'm not clairvoyant. Tell me what's troubling you."

"It isn't troubling me," she said defensively, but I knew she was stretching the truth a bit. "But the gal has suddenly developed the greatest crush on me that you ever saw. She pays no attention whatever to Noel, almost snubs him, in fact."

"I can imagine that Noel is terribly crushed and grief-stricken by that," I murmured impishly, and Mary paid me the tribute of a gleeful little laugh.

"He seems to be standing up nobly under the strain," she said. "But that doesn't alter the fact that Olina's devotion is as embarrassing as it is puzzling. She's always under foot; always asking my advice about things; always trying to get me to play tennis or one of her queer games of cards, or play duets with her—always excluding Noel. We hardly have a chance to see each other all day."

"Ah!" I said comprehendingly.

"So you think that, too?" she said triumphantly. "Wait till I tell that to Noel."

"Why?" I asked unguardedly.

"Because the dear trusting soul was quite shocked when I told him that I was sure all Olina wanted was to keep our two fond hearts from beating together for any times that she could throw a monkey wrench into the proceedings. Noel allowed that the gal was probably lonesome for young feminine companionship, and that she was really craving my company. Lord! Aunt Madge, what saps men can be, can't they?"

"I shouldn't exactly call him a sap, Mary," I said judicially. "Personally, I think Olina would have made a successful actress. She has distinct histrionic powers. I agree with you that she probably has some other reason than your compelling charm for her attentions to you. But you can't expect Noel to believe that. Men are not saps, but credulous, especially when a woman has a flair for the dramatic."

"Flair for the dramatic is right," Mary retorted. "I'll give you three guesses at to what she's trying to pull with Pa-pa Veritzen."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

Familiarity with the bidding practices favored by your partner can in critical spots be a most important factor in your wringing every possible point out of the cards vouchsafed you. If you know him as a player who bids on bare minimums, that is one thing. But it is another if he makes a habit of having somewhat more than the standard amount of strength of each call he enunciates.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Edward Lasker, head of the radio department of the great advertising agency of Lord & Thomas, is a bridge player of keen perception. He was criticized adversely for one very daring bid he made on this deal. He had called 1-Diamond in the South, West 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, Mr. Lasker 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, Mr. Lasker, the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, North 5-Hearts to show two aces, and then the 7-Diamonds, which East doubled.

Although the contract was made right on the head, Mr. Lasker was censured for going to 7-Diamonds as soon as he had the information about North's two aces, on the ground that he could not know about the two queens. He countered trebly, pointing out that the club queen was not needed, that four little diamonds by North would have counteracted the necessity for the queen, and that anyway, North was a most conservative bidder who probably had something extra.

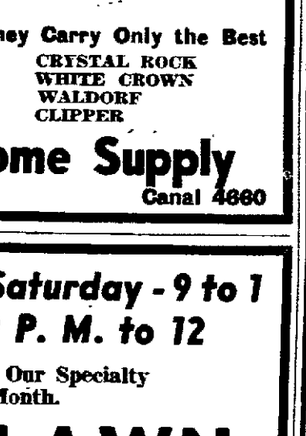
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best bidding of this deal?

Glass eyes are not modern inventions. They were use by the Romans and, before them, the Egyptians.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Dec. 9

Most propitious auguries for progress, fulfilled ambitions and rich rewards are predicted for this day. It is a time for reaching for high goals in almost any direction of accomplishment and aspiration, with all forces contributing to the desired ends. There may be drastic action involved, with group support or the cooperation of political, diplomatic, financial or fraternal bodies. In all such contacts be wary with writings and papers, which are under adverse vibrations. Exercise finessee in doubtful situations.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of signal achievement and outstanding good fortune. It is a time for putting over ambitious programs or reaching for exalted aspirations, since many factors of power and prestige are ready to support generously and graciously. Much progress and pleasure are in sight, but be cautious in handling all papers and writings.

A child born on this day may be richly endowed with the forces and graces for splendid success in life, with high ideals, progressive ideas and worthy ambitions reaching full fruition and gratification.

The blood feudists of Albania operate under the "Law of Lek." This provides that a feudist may arrange for a period of truce during which he will not be shot if he goes to town, holds a party or gathers his crops.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

EVIDENTLY it didn't take our collegians long to settle down to work and campus activities again after the Thanksgiving holiday recess, because the morning mail brought much news of their doings at their respective schools. . . . For instance, Charles E. Hunter, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunter, has been named chairman of the annual Christmas formal for his fraternity, Beta Theta Pi, at Western Reserve university in Cleveland.

This next week will be a busy one, indeed, for Elaine Schiller, junior at Seton Hill college in Greensburg, Pa. . . . When a three-act play, "The Perfect Gift," is presented at the college Tuesday evening, Elaine will be a member of the Angel Chorus—singing during the Nativity scenes of the play. (It is interesting to learn that this production is being sponsored by Rosa Mystica Sodality of the college, and all proceeds will be used to provide medicine, food, clothing and transportation to mass on Christmas for rural indigent families of that community.) Oh, but that's not all—on Wednesday the Seton Hill glee club will present its annual Christmas concert in Cecilian hall on the campus. . . . And a feature of the program will be the singing of Reger's "The Virgin's Slumber Song" by the sextet, of which Elaine is a member. . . . She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller, you know.

From another eastern school—Simmons college in Boston—comes the news that Barbara Hartman is on the committee for the Simmons Town Meeting. . . . These sessions were begun last year by the college president, Bancroft Beatley, for the discussion of subjects ranging from motion picture academy awards to foreign affairs—and this year the procedure will be that of a panel discussion. . . . Barbara, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartman, is a senior in the school of business and secretarial studies at the college.

HER FRIENDS will be disturbed to learn that Mrs. Marvel Cowell is ill with scarlet fever—but relieved to know that "she's doing nicely, thank you." . . . And I'll wager she'd appreciate a card of cheer to brighten the days.

* * *

HEADING SOUTH: Mr. and Mrs. George W. DeYarmon left this week for West Palm Beach, Fla., where they will vacation until we again have springtime here in these parts—they're staying at their usual abode, Forrest Dale apartments. . . . But the DeYarmons won't be the only Mansfielders in West Palm Beach for so very long—Mr. and Mrs. William Orbison will leave next Monday to drive down—for the rest of the winter and on into spring—as they don't plan to come back until next April.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE ZERBY have been here from Hollywood, Cal., visiting with Mr. Zerby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zerby. . . . They left earlier this week for Chicago, Ill., to meet their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Zerby, who are appearing there in a dancing act at the Grand Opera house. . . . The Zerbys will return to Mansfield for another short visit before returning to their home in Hollywood.

AND IN CONCLUSION: Mrs. J. E. Upson is staying at the Barbizon Plaza while visiting in New York City. . . . Sanchen Cutter has returned from California, where she was vacationing with relatives and friends. . . . Mayor and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor arrived in town this week following a vacation at many points of interest in Florida.

Greer Garson, who made her screen debut in "Mr. Chips," and whose current picture, "Remember?" is booked for early showing in Mansfield, will play Susan. Both March and Miss Garson will report to the Culver City studio after the first of the year. George Cukor will direct and Hunt Stromberg will produce the Rachel Crothers' stage show for the screen. It will be March's first picture since his return to Hollywood from New York where he appeared in the stage play "The American Way" last season.

They're Good Tricks.

Many a man who witnesses "Eternally Yours," booked for the Madison tomorrow, will envy David Niven his ability to make his wife disappear at will, kiss him although she is boiling mad, and create a beautiful woman out of chemicals. He can make birds and animals disappear at will—but he can't do the same for those lipstick stains on his cheek and collar. Niven plays the title role in "The Great Arturo" and Loretta Young is seen as his wife and assistant. Hugh Herbert, Billie Burke, C. Aubrey Smith, Zazu Pitts, Broderick Crawford and Virginia Fields are in the supporting cast. Jean Hersholt in "Meet Dr. Christian" is the second feature.

Texas Cinderella.

The luscious little beauty who came into movie consciousness with her first picture, "Hotel for Women," now has a leading role opposite Tyrone Power in "Daytime Wife." Linda Darnell, the Texas Cinderella whose father is a postal clerk in Dallas, is starred in this, her second picture, largely because she won rave notices everywhere with her screen debut, "Daytime Wife" is a gay version of the old formula of husband-strays, wife-strays-to-bring-him-back. Wendy Barrie is the cause of husband straying and Warren William helps wife to bring him back. Binnie Barnes and Joan Davis are in the cast. The picture opens tomorrow at the Ohio.

500 Years From Now.

A new serial opens at the Ritz theater today, which revolves around the amazing adventures of Buck Rogers in an amazing imaginative conception of the world as it will be 500 years from now. Such things as space-ships, paralyzing guns, death rays, ray guns and de-gravity belts, are used to tell the story, which is in 12 chapters. Larry Crabbe is seen as Buck. The bill is completed with "The Witness Vanishes," and a Western feature, The Three Mesquiteers in "New Frontiers."

Sings and Shoots.

Fred Scott, who sings as well as rides and shoots, is the hero of "Rangers' Round-Up," a Majestic attraction. Scott, as a ranger, is engaged in running down a band of mail and express robbers, and does it to the clatter of hoofs, the whiz of bullets and such musical numbers as "Jo Jo From Mexico" and "The Terrior of Termite Valley." Also shown is "Tell No Tales," an exciting screen yarn of a newspaper man who is handed a clue to a murder and kidnaping when he receives a $100 dollar bill. Melvyn Douglas and Louise Platt are in the cast.

Autry at the Park.

Republic Pictures didn't have to go to the expense of building a set for the making of Gene Autry's picture, "The Big Show." The company just went to the Dallas Exposition in Texas and made the picture there. "The Big Show" is one of the two pictures at the Park. The second one is "The Count of Monte Cristo," which is still one of the most dramatic "revenge" stories in the world's literature. Robert Donat plays the man who came back from prison with his buried treasure and Elissa Landi is seen as the sweetheart who married another.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Of course! We'll all be there in ten minutes," I said. "But tell me, how is Father?"

"Improving rapidly," she said, "but still too weak for all he tries to do. However, there's no doing anything with him. I'm very glad you're back. You're the only person to whom he pays the slightest attention."

"And then only upon very rare occasions," I told her, smiling. "But I'll do my best to make him behave."

"If you can't, nobody can," she said, and hurried back to her patient, while Mary, taking advantage of Dicky's pre-occupation with Junior and Roderick, of the meticulous attentions Lillian and Harry were paying to Mother Graham, and of Katherine's apparently cordial welcome to Edith, came close to me with Noel just behind her and whispered:

"Do you suppose we could slip away for a minute? I've just loads to tell you and ask you."

"Come into my little study," I whispered back and turned unobtrusively away without a backward glance which might attract the attention of my mother-in-law—I knew nobody else would give our departure a second thought.

She was close behind me as I opened my study door, and I looked around for Noel but did not see him.

"Isn't Noel coming with us?" I asked.

She laughed a bit constrainedly. "I tipped him the wink to stay behind," she said, "and he was perfectly willing to lie low. He probably has an inkling of what I'm going to tell you."

She drew a deep breath, evidently nerving herself for revelation.

"What do you think Olina is hatching up now?" she asked.

I smiled reassuringly at her dolorous face.

"It's no use asking me," I told her. "I'm not clairvoyant. Tell me what's troubling you."

"It isn't troubling me," she said defensively, but I knew she was stretching the truth a bit. "But the gal has suddenly developed the greatest crush on me that you ever saw. She pays no attention whatever to Noel, almost snubs him, in fact."

"I can imagine that Noel is terribly crushed and grief-stricken by that," I murmured impishly, and Mary paid me the tribute of a gleeful little laugh.

"He seems to be standing up nobly under the strain," she said. "But that doesn't alter the fact that Olina's devotion is as embarrassing as it is puzzling. She's always under foot; always asking my advice about things; always trying to get me to play tennis or one of her queer games of cards, or play duets with her—always excluding Noel. We hardly have a chance to see each other all day."

"Ah!" I said comprehendingly.

"So you think that, too?" she said triumphantly. "Wait till I tell that to Noel."

"Why?" I asked unguardedly.

"Because the dear trusting soul was quite shocked when I told him that I was sure all Olina wanted was to keep our two fond hearts from beating together for any times that she could throw a monkey wrench into the proceedings. Noel allowed that the gal was probably lonesome for young feminine companionship, and that she was really craving my company. Lord! Aunt Madge, what saps men can be, can't they?"

"I shouldn't exactly call him a sap, Mary," I said judicially. "Personally, I think Olina would have made a successful actress. She has distinct histrionic powers. I agree with you that she probably has some other reason than your compelling charm for her attentions to you. But you can't expect Noel to believe that. Men are not saps, but credulous, especially when a woman has a flair for the dramatic."

"Flair for the dramatic is right," Mary retorted. "I'll give you three guesses at to what she's trying to pull with Pa-pa Veritzen."

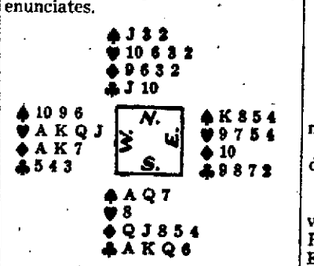
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

Familiarity with the bidding practices favored by your partner can in critical spots be a most important factor in your wringing every possible point out of the cards vouchsafed you. If you know him as a player who bids on bare minimums, that is one thing. But it is another if he makes a habit of having somewhat more than the standard amount of strength of each call he enunciates.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Edward Lasker, head of the radio department of the great advertising agency of Lord & Thomas, is a bridge player of keen perception. He was criticized adversely for one very daring bid he made on this deal. He had called 1-Diamond in the South, West 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, Mr. Lasker 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, Mr. Lasker, the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, North 5-Hearts to show two aces, and then the 7-Diamonds, which East doubled.

Although the contract was made right on the head, Mr. Lasker was censured for going to 7-Diamonds as soon as he had the information about North's two aces, on the ground that he could not know about the two queens. He countered trebly, pointing out that the club queen was not needed, that four little diamonds by North would have counteracted the necessity for the queen, and that anyway, North was a most conservative bidder who probably had something extra.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What is the best bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Dec. 9

Most propitious auguries for progress, fulfilled ambitions and rich rewards are predicted for this day. It is a time for reaching for high goals in almost any direction of accomplishment and aspiration, with all forces contributing to the desired ends. There may be drastic action involved, with group support or the cooperation of political, diplomatic, financial or fraternal bodies. In all such contacts be wary with writings and papers, which are under adverse vibrations. Exercise finessee in doubtful situations.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of signal achievement and outstanding good fortune. It is a time for putting over ambitious programs or reaching for exalted aspirations, since many factors of power and prestige are ready to support generously and graciously. Much progress and pleasure are in sight, but be cautious in handling all papers and writings.

A child born on this day may be richly endowed with the forces and graces for splendid success in life, with high ideals, progressive ideas and worthy ambitions reaching full fruition and gratification.

The blood feudists of Albania operate under the "Law of Lek." This provides that a feudist may arrange for a period of truce during which he will not be shot if he goes to town, holds a party or gathers his crops.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

EVIDENTLY it didn't take our collegians long to settle down to work and campus activities again after the Thanksgiving holiday recess, because the morning mail brought much news of their doings at their respective schools . . . For instance, Charles E. Hunter, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunter, has been named chairman of the annual Christmas formal for his fraternity, Beta Theta Pi, at Western Reserve university in Cleveland.

This next week will be a busy one, indeed, for Elaine Schiller, junior at Seton Hill college in Greensburg, Pa. . . . When a three-act play, "The Perfect Gift," is presented at the college Tuesday evening, Elaine will be a member of the Angel Chorus—singing during the Nativity scenes of the play. (It is interesting to learn that this production is being sponsored by Rosa Mystica Sodality of the college, and all proceeds will be used to provide medicine, food, clothing and transportation to mass on Christmas for rural indigent families of that community.) Oh, but that's not all—on Wednesday the Seton Hill glee club will present its annual Christmas concert in Cecilian hall on the campus . . . And a feature of the program will be the singing of Reger's "The Virgin's Slumber Song" by the sextet, of which Elaine is a member. . . . She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller, you know.

From another eastern school—Simmons college in Boston—comes the news that Barbara Hartman is on the committee for the Simmons Town Meeting. . . . These sessions were begun last year by the college president, Bancroft Beatley, for the discussion of subjects ranging from motion picture academy awards to foreign affairs—and this year the procedure will be that of a panel discussion. . . . Barbara, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartman, is a senior in the school of business and secretarial studies at the college.

HER FRIENDS will be disturbed to learn that Mrs. Marvel Cowell is ill with scarlet fever—but relieved to know that "she's doing nicely, thank you." . . . And I'll wager she'd appreciate a card of cheer to brighten the days.

HEADING SOUTH: Mr. and Mrs. George W. DeYarmon left this week for West Palm Beach, Fla., where they will vacation until we again have springtime here in these parts—they're staying at their usual abode, Forrest Dale apartments. . . . But the DeYarmons won't be the only Mansfielders in West Palm Beach for so very long—Mr. and Mrs. William Orbison will leave next Monday to drive down—for the rest of the winter and on into spring—as they don't plan to come back until next April.

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE ZERBY have been here from Hollywood, Cal., visiting with Mr Zerby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zerby. . . . They left earlier this week for Chicago, Ill., to meet their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Zerby, who are appearing there in a dancing act at the Grand Opera house. . . . The Zerbys will return to Mansfield for another short visit before returning to their home in Hollywood.

AND IN CONCLUSION. Mrs. J. E. Upson is staying at the Barbizon Plaza while visiting in New York City. . . . Sanchen Cutter has returned from California, where she was vacationing with relatives and friends. . . . Mayor and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor arrived in town this week following a vacation at many points of interest in Florida.

Mrs. Philip Wentz won the contest prize. Plans were made to hold the club's annual dinner and theater party Dec. 14 at 6 p. m. Refreshments were served by the hostess at a long table decorated with a lighted tree, Santa Claus and reindeer. Mrs. Blocher lead the devotions after which plans were made to have a covered-dish dinner party Jan. 4 at the home of Mrs. Jake Franzen, Bulkley avenue.

Five hundred was played last night when Miss Lena Carbetti, Mulberry street, entertained members of L'Amici club. Miss Jennie Augustine was a guest. Prizes were presented to Mrs. Earl Wilson and Mrs. Henry Chicolani, after which the hostess served refreshments at tables decorated with pink and white appointments.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held Dec. 17 with dancing and refreshments at Prospect park. There will be a meeting and Christmas exchange at the home of Mrs. Joseph Mascioli, East Sixth street, Dec. 21. Mrs Mascioli was presented with a wedding gift by the club, and Mrs. Patsy LaSusa was appointed reporter.

Schwarz' tavern on the Lexington avenue road was the scene of the annual Christmas party of the A. L. S. club yesterday evening. There were 15 members, including Mrs. Ervin Close of Shelby, in attendance at the affair. Dinner was served at one table, decorated in keeping with the Christmas season.

Mrs. Thomas Taylor, club president, was in charge of the business, after which the group had an exchange of gifts. Card games were the evening's diversion, with prizes going to Mrs. Vernon Sherman, Mrs. Close, Mrs. Glena Pittman and Mrs. R. C. Baker. Mrs. D. E. Craig, Mrs. Ernest Hartman, Mrs. D. L. Boone, Mrs. C. G. Boals, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Baker were in charge of arrangements for the party.

Holiday Program Given Yesterday At First Church

Mrs. R. W. James and Mrs. Anna Rice were in charge of a meeting of the Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Christian church yesterday in the Sunday school rooms at the church. Mrs. J. Mrs. Ella Frasher, delegate to the national convention in celebration of the 70th anniversary of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society at Pasadena, Calif., earlier this fall, reported on that session.

The program of the afternoon was continued, when Mrs. Ralph Wadsworth read "The Story of Silent Night." Mrs. E. N. Cooper then presented two chapters from the study book, "Women and the Way." Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth led the group in singing of Christmas carols at the close of the program. Mrs. J. W. Galbraith and members of her committee served a fellowship supper after the session. The next meeting will be held Jan. 4.

Welcome Guests to Pavonia Garden Club

Miss Mary Jane Henry and Mrs. Eldon Harper were guests at a meeting of Pavonia Garden and Literature club last evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Meyer, jr., in Pavonia. The meeting was opened with the singing of Christmas carols, and the roll call was answered with Christmas quotations from the Bible.

Mrs. Meyer and her sister, Mrs. Waldo Hale, played a piano solo, after which Mrs. Charles Parcher reviewed the life of Johann Strauss. Mrs. Thomas Williams gave a Christmas poem, and a prize in the evening's contests went to Mrs. George Robinson. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening, and Mrs. Parcher announced that she would entertain the group on Dec. 28.

Holiday Theme Carried Out at Circle Session

Mrs. Frank W. Smith, 80 Brickman avenue, assisted by Mrs. Bernard Park and Mrs. D. W. Challender, opened her home to members of Circle Two of the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. Following a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. C. V. Baker, sewing was done for the Service league, and a program based on the theme "Christmas Thoughts" was given.

Mrs. R. E. McCombs led the devotions, and Miss Leotta Hunter gave the story "Where Love Is, There God Is Also" by Tolstoi. Mrs. Roy Stevens read an original poem after which tea was served at a table decorated with Christmas appointments. Mrs. Challender poured.

ORGANIZE CHURCH CLASS.

A group of young women of First Lutheran church, members of the Ecclesiastes class, met at the home of Miss Beatrice Shade, 447 South Main street, last evening, and organized, with the following officers being elected: Phyllis Bottomley, president; Mary Ellen Miller, vice president; Mildred Metz, secretary, and Miss Shade, treasurer. During the business meeting plans were made for Christmas gift exchange at the home of Miss Naomi Linsenmayer, Woodward avenue, Dec. 21. A luncheon was served at the close of the evening.

HAVE LUNCHEON.

Mrs Anna McVicar entertained the Thursday Mothers club yesterday with a luncheon at her home on Buckingham street. The afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Boyd E. Keith will be hostess for a 12 o'clock luncheon at the Towne House on Dec. 28.

Three Women's Groups Have Meetings At Central Church

SESSIONS of the women's organizations of the Central Methodist church were conducted yesterday beginning at 11 a. m. with the session of the Foreign Missionary society conducted by Mrs. E. C. Jenkins. Mrs. Louis Rahn gave the worship service, and a trio made up of Mrs. L. A. Ogborn, Mrs. Charles Birch and Mrs. Retta Bonar, accompanied by Mrs. H. D. Bishop, sang Christmas songs.

"The Other Wise Man" was the story given by Mrs. H. W. Peterson, and luncheon was then served. In the afternoon Mrs. L. F. Rondel conducted the Home society meeting with Mrs. A. H. Au leading the devotions. Mrs. George Ganyard was in charge of the study program. Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine sang and played Christmas songs, and the trio which sang at the morning session gave a Polish Christmas carol.

Tyger Quintet Host to Columbus South Tonight

IN THE RUHL BOOK

BY OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

A NASTY situation was revealed at the minor league meeting in Cincinnati this week, but it was passed over without a great deal of comment as baseball men are fearful that scandal of any serious nature will be harmful to the game.

Judge William G. Branham, president of the national association, warned that some one was going to be seriously hurt before it was cleared up, and life suspension of the guilty parties is virtually certain to be the penalties.

Outside of the "Black Sox Scandal" and one or two other minor affairs, baseball has escaped harmful notoriety, and, undoubtedly, this is one of the reasons why the game continues to thrive.

It is thoughts of the Chicago White Sox "sell-out" that are revived whenever even the slightest mention of scandal is heard as the 1919 affair came close to wrecking the game of baseball.

The present discovery in the minor league ranks is not as serious as the "Black Sox Scandal," but, unless the practice uncovered is nipped in the bud, baseball might have a serious problem to unravel.

Hits at Hidden Forged Contracts.

THE present "dark spot" centers around hidden forged contracts. An unnamed club is accused of filing 14 contracts with the national association calling for salaries of $60 to $90 per month.

Judge Branham contends that he has discovered that the players had not signed those contracts, but that their names had been forged.

The contracts signed by the players called for salaries of $175 and $250 per month, the good judge says, and those were the salaries they are said to have drawn, although those salaries put the club's total salaries far above the league limit.

"The owner of the club is a multi-millionaire," Branham stated. "The officials of the club, until this came up, were regarded as the most honest men in their city.

"When we checked into the contracts, we were told by the club president that he didn't know about the two sets of contracts until a month after the season opened, but that the board of directors at that time decided to continue to violate baseball law by paying the higher salaries while keeping the low-salaried contracts on file in my office.

"The club owner said he knew little about baseball, and had merely certified the contracts placed on his desk by his front office. The club officers said they knew nothing about the two sets of contracts, but had left everything up to the manager. The manager said he knew nothing about the extra set of contracts. Someone is going to be seriously hurt before it's cleared up."

Settlemire to Return As Pilot of Pandas.

LIMA —(AP)— The champion Lima Pandas of the Ohio State Baseball League retained Manager Merle (Lefty) Settlemire for the 1940 season. Settlemire accepted terms of club owners yesterday at the Cincinnati baseball meeting. The Pandas also announced sale of Outfielder Mark Quackenbush to Vancouver of the Western International League.

Madison, Ontario Renew Old Rivalry in League Feature on Rams' Court.

ONE of the deadliest rivalries in county basketball circles will be renewed on the Madison high hardwood tonight when the Rams entertain Coach Orv Kibler's Ontario Warriors.

The game will be the first league assignment for the Warriors, who lost to Plymouth and won over New Washington in non-league games this season.

Coach Al Fendrick's Madison quintet has a victory and a defeat to show for its efforts, but the triumph came in a league tussel, the Rams open with a victory over Butler.

Madison found the Ashland cagers of the N. C. O. conference a wee bit tough this week, and bowed to the A's, 42 to 24.

Both teams are regarded as definite threats in this year's title race, and while Madison, with the advantage of its home floor, is slightly favored, Ontario is expected to make it interesting for the Rams.

Two other league contests are on tonight's schedule. Lexington, which defeated Lucas in the only game it has played, faces Butler on its own floor, and the Bulldogs are primed to upset the Minutemen.

Union and Lucas, victoryless in the league, tangles in Lucas' new gym, with the outcome doubtful.

Bellville, pre-season league favorite, plays a non-league game in Fredericktown tonight, and the Bluejays are favored.

The Twin-Valley league, which includes two county schools, swings into action tonight. Plymouth is host to Greenwich and Shiloh plays at North Fairfield. Huron performs at New Haven in the other game.

* * *

North Central Ohio conference teams do not open their championship race until later, but all of the clubs will be in action except Shelby. Ashland plays at Norwalk, Marion at Delaware, Bucyrus at Crestline, Galion at Willard and Mt. Vernon entertains Columbus Aquinas.

Ohio 'B' Team Handed Loss By Otterbein

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)— A chastened lot of sophomore basketball hopefuls buckled down to serious court practice at Ohio State university today after being thoroughly de-glamourized by the varsity cagers of Otterbein college.

There were no embryonic Jimmy Hulls on display last night among the Buckeye newcomers as they were defeated, 29 to 24, by a smaller but more aggressive and better shooting Otterbein quint.

* * *

The Sophomores, playing as the Ohio State "B" team, expected to have an easy time with the Otterbein cagers who won only one game last winter and dropped their season opener to Cedarville last Saturday.

Speedy Jerry Rife snared nine points to lead Otterbein to victory in a ragged contest. Neither team was able to tally a point until after seven minutes of play when Rife dumped in his first field goal.

Poor shooting accounted for most of the Ohio State troubles. Bright spots in the dismal showing were Jack McClain, guard from Columbus South, and Dick Fisher, footballer from Columbiana. Each hooked three field goals and Fisher also had a free throw for seven points. Tom Kinkade, another grid star from Toronto, showed only flashes of court form. Al Marzano, Newark, displayed a neat floor game but weak shooting. The Ohio State varsity opens next Thursday against Wabash here.

Led by the high-scoring sophomores of last year, Jim Richcreek and Bob Sprague, Ashland college opened the new season with an impressive, 39 to 30, triumph over Youngstown. Sprague got 16 and Richcreek, 15 points last night.

Findlay rung up a second straight win by defeating Defiance, 41 to 31. Heidelberg trounced Ohio Chiropody, 45 to 32, in its opener. Karl Zalar netted 15 points for Heidelberk. Capital won an alumnm game, 45 to 37.

Stormy Session Seen As Majors Convene

American Loop Hopes to Stop Yankees With Constitutional Amendment.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Harmony flew out the window today as the two major baseball leagues opened their annual joint meeting with Commissioner K. M. Landis presiding.

By working far into the night, the two leagues, sitting in separate sessions, combined their usual two-day meeting into a one-day affair and thus will conclude their winter convention today.

Radical differences on several points promised a stormy session. Not only were the leagues at loggerheads, but Landis, who has been the recipient of a few potshots lately by disgruntled officials, had a few axes to grind himself. Major points on which the two leagues disagree are:

Clark Griffith's rule which provides that a championship team cannot acquire a player except via the waiver route in its own league until it no longer is champion. The American league adopted the proposal and the National league rejected it.

Recent legislation adopted by the minors as amendments to the major-minor agreement. One of these provides that each club shall be considered as a separate unit without regard to its parent club and the other provides that all rules be construed as they are written without interpretation. The National league favors accepting these amendments and the American league opposes them.

In announcing the adoption of Griffith's proposal, the American league expressed hope the National league also would accept it but said that regardless of what the senior circuit did they would retain the amendment. The measure was a direct potshot at the Yanks, but the Bronx Bombers appeared capable of worrying along without help from other American league clubs. In fact, the Yanks were real sports about it and, in order to make the vote unanimous, cast their ballot for the amendment when they saw they were about to be defeated.

The situation was radically different in the National league, where each fall sees the champion desperately in need of overhauling in order to stay in the race. The champion Reds of 1939 admit that they must strengthen by trading if they are to retain their laurels.

The rift over the amendments to the major-minor agreement may involve the two leagues in a bitter battle. Landis can break the deadlock, if he so desires, by casting the deciding vote.

Inasmuch as the two amendments were designed to give chain store baseball operators more latitude, Landis, long an enemy of such practice, is likely to side with the American league. However, some critics think Landis may cross up everyone and vote the National league's way if he feels that these rules are what the majority of baseball men want.

The American league rule against a champion acquiring players from other clubs goes into effect immediately. Even now the Yanks are barred from making a deal except by waivers. The rule, however, does not prevent the Yanks from selling a player if they so wish.

Seeks Second Win of Season

Mansfield's Opening Game Faults Believed Remedied In Workouts This Week.

WITH the major faults which cropped out in their opening game against the Alumni club believed remedied, Coach Vern Hoffman's Mansfield high school cagers were ready for their second test of the new season tonight.

The Tygers, who defeated the ex-grads, 28 to 19, last week, are hosts to Columbus South tonight. The contest will follow a preliminary setto featuring the Mansfield reserves at 7 p. m.

Although satisfied with the improvement displayed by the Tygers in this week's series of drills, Hoffman regards tonight's foe with more than ordinary concern.

South was beaten by Lancaster St. Mary's in its opener by a 35 to 33 score, but displayed plenty of scoring power, Hoffman has learned.

* * *

Failure to convert more than five out of 18 foul tosses cost the Bulldogs the victory.

The Tyger's task tonight will be to stop Floyd Taylor, a guard on the Columbus team. Taylor, a mainstay of last season's team, is rated as one of the best shots in Columbus scholastic circles.

Whether or not Taylor can break through the Tygers' defense will be determined tonight, but the Mansfield club was particularly tough in this department of play last week in its opener.

The work of Don Rose and Bill Herpich at the guard posts was a highlight of the Alumni game.

These two defensive stars will be in the starting lineup again tonight, Hoffman said, with Gene Miller, who led the scoring in his debut as a Tyger basketeer last week, and Gene Rudolph at the forwards.

Russ Beer, six-foot-four, is slated to start at center. Beer's rebound play was of a high order in the inaugural.

FRANK MORGAN, featuring a 258 middle game, and Louie Uplinger hung up respective totals of 638 and 627 to lead Heilman's Grocers to a 2880 series in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Rolling scores of 887, 992 and 1001, the Grocers took three games from the Southern Hotel.

Kochheiser's Athletic Supplies were second high in team scoring with a 2722 count, which was good for a clean sweep over Ohio Public Service.

Indian Princess Wins Wild Match at Armory Last Night

BOY, fetch me a rocking chair. And put it in a nice quiet corner. One more night at Tim Nolan's Quality club wrestling show like last night at the Armory and we'll make our letter in crocheting—or rocking.

* * *

First off, there was that final tiff between Gladys "Kill 'em" Gillem and Princess Rose White Cloud. There was blood and gore and plenty more.

Gladys whopped the Princess on the floor. Rose slammed Gladys around. They traded lefts. They traded rights. The spectators exchanged blows, and when the smoke of battle had cleared, there sat Referee victorious over everyone—but minus shirt and undershirt.

The Indian Princess took the first fall in 5 minutes with three body slams and a top body press. While the second match was given her on default after Dixie Gladys had kicked, gouged and scratched.

Davey Reynolds, Cedar Rapids, Ia., won the curtain raiser with a clever trick. Recovering after being thrown out of the ring, Davey sneaked around the back, crawled up on Buzz Jones from the rear, slugged him down and got the fall, while Referee Clarence Miller was still looking for the missing Reynolds.

* * *

In the semi-final between Indian Ike Gazell and the favored Gil Knutson, the Swedish-Canadian finally won out after taking a terrific beating. The first fall was his in 20 minutes, and the second in 11.

Bowman Drops Out of Lead

Bushnell, Carpenter Replace Club in School League.

Bowman Street school basketballers today found themselves in an unfamiliar berth in the Grade School league standings.

* * *

The Bowman cagers ran into a determined Bushnell high quintet in the games at Senior high yesterday and ended up on the short end of a 16 to 11 score. It was Bowman's first defeat, and pushed it into a tie for third place. Bowman won the championship last year.

Bushnell's third straight win gave it a share of first place with Carpenter in the hectic race.

Carpenter registered its triumph by walloping Woodland, 13 to 3. In the other contests, Western beat Hedges, 10 to 5, Newman grabbed a share of third place by edging West Fifth, 12 to 10, and Brinkerhoff turned back Prospect, 17 to 9.

* * *

The Bushnell club held Bowman scoreless in the opening quarter to gain an early lead. Bushnell was leading, 6-0, in the first, 8-4, at the half, and 10-8, at the end of the third. Jones led the winners with 10 points.

* * *

Paced by Mercer, who scored 11 points to win individual honors yesterday, Carpenter had little trouble with Woodland. The winners were ahead, 5-1 at half-time.

Trade Walker To Washington

White Sox Get Appleton, Wright in Return.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Gee Walker, the Chicago White Sox outfielder, who a couple of months ago was bellowing for a recount, is going where they really know what the word means—Washington.

In a midnight maneuver that topped the previously feeble trading efforts of the mid-winter baseball meeting, the Pale Hose sent him to the Senators for Outfielder Taft Wright and Pitcher Pete Appleton.

* * *

The deal apparently was the answer of the Chicago management to the anguished outcries of Walker concerning his bonus arrangement with the club last year. Taking a cut from $15,000 to $10,000 last year, Walker was promised a bonus if the attendance reached 600,000 and was loudly indignant when the season's turnout was announced as 592,000.

The trade dealt a serious blow to any hopes the Cleveland Indians might have had of swapping players at the major league meetings.

The Redskins admittedly were after a right-handed hitting outfielder, which answers Walker's description, and were offering as chief bait a catcher the Chicago White Sox wanted, Frankie Pytlak.

Yesterday Cleveland officials turned down Philadelphia's offer of Outfielder Wally Moses for Pytlak and Outfielder Bruce Campbell.

Billiards Stop Raemelton Farm

Canfields Defeat Moose, Dairys Halt Daley's Quint In Friendly House League.

HOSTILITIES broke open in the 1939-40 campaign of the Friendly House Class A senior basketball league on the settlement court last night with the defending championship Rex Billiards, Augustine's Canfield Station and the Isaly Dairys registering initial victories.

The Cuemen came through with their win by defeating the Raemelton Farm club, 26 to 20, the Dairys topped the Daley's Cafe combine, 31 to 25, and the Canfield Station quintet dusted off the advantage in a thrilling first period, and were leading by three points at the intermission.

With Tony Brucato pacing the attack, the Billiards came back after the rest period to whitewash their opponents in the third frame while adding four points to their advantage. The Farm club outscored the winners, 11 to 10, in the final quarter, but couldn't overcome the lead. Brucato slipped in eight points to annex individual honors.

The Billiards led, 6-5, in the first period, 12 to 9, at the half, and 16 to 9 at the end of the third stanza.

Isaly's representatives found the Cafe outfit dangerous all the way. After battling to a 6-6 deadlock in the initial quarter, the Dairys outscored the restaurant quintet to gain a lead they never relinquished.

Led by Bajai, who collected 10 points, the Isaly squad went ahead, 16 to 12, at half-time, and was holding a 20 to 15 lead going into the last quarter. Shaffer of the Daley club was high-point man with 14 markers.

* * *

It was a different story for the Canfield Station basketeers. They stopped the Moose team cold in the initial frame to take a 14 to 0 lead, and increased the advantage to a 20 to 3 count at the half. Augustine's cagers led, 28 to 7, as play opened in the final period. George Bosko came through to grab individual honors with 10 points. Ray Shively topped the losers with seven.

BUCKY WALTERS SIGNS CINCINNATI CONTRACT

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Although still frustrated in the quest for another hard-hitting outfielder, the Cincinnati Reds today gleaned comfort from the signatures of two $20,000-salaried pitchers for 1940.

Bucky Walters, 27-game winner in the Redleg pennant drive last season, affixed his John Hancock to a two-year contract believed to call for compensation in the neighborhood of $40,000 for the biannium. Paul Derringer, the other Redleg hurling ace, signed earlier this week at around the same figure.
